Augusta's Airport Useful Colonel Green La Place and John L. Why the Radio?

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1927, by Star Co.)

LINDBERGH IN HIS trip flying to ninety cities in the forty-eight States has worked to help flying, the one thing that interest him. Everywhere he has urged the importance of airports, not only for the sake of aviation, but especially for the sake of each city's standing and prosperity.

One after another, American cities, all but New York, the biggest, are establishing airports. Mr. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, informs the writer that the city of Augusta is establishing a magnificent airport on a convenient hill overlooking the city. New York city, which hasn't any airport and which is rich enough to have a hundred, please take notice.

E. Francis Jenkins says he has invented a runway that will launch an airplane in a space 100 feet long, making big airports unnecessary. Good news, if true.

Other good news, without any "it," is supplied by Colonel E. H. R. Green, who likes to make his fortune useful.

On his estate at Round Hills, South Dartmouth, he will build two flying fields, with grass runways, one 3,800 feet long, the other 2,700 feet long. These, says he, will take care of planes twice as large as any built hitherto.

Scientists appeal for funds to build a monument to La Place, and every intelligent human being should be glad to contribute something.

But it would probably be easier to raise money for a monument to John L. Sullivan than for the La Place monument.

La Place, son of a poor French peasant, was, next to Newton, the greatest mathematical mind that ever lived. His work on "Celestial Mechanics," based on Newton's law, was the first exposition of the structure of this universe.

Unfortunately, no living artist is capable of building the right monument to such an overwhelming intellectual genius.

For one man in America that ever heard of La Place, 1,000 know John L. Sullivan WELL. That's our civilization.

There is some mild government supervision of the radio. Do the supervisors consider it necessary or desirable that the details, bloody or otherwise, of prize fights should be sent into homes and listened to by twenty millions of Americans, including children? Would you describe that as making an intellectual "Christian" and elevated use of a great scientific discovery?

We must have the prize ring, the bloody fights, of course, for those that can afford to pay $125 a ringside seat, just as we must have "speak-easies" for those that can pay $25 a bottle for cham-

SACCO DECISION REACHED

FATEFUL FINDING WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN COURT TOMORROW MORNING

The Massachusetts Supreme Court today formulated its decision on the Sacco-Vanzetti appeals, settling every detail of the momentous opinion, which is eagerly awaited throughout the world.

The decision will be made public tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, according to announcement made by Ethelbert Grabill, official reporter of Supreme Court decisions, after a conference with acting Chief Justice Braley.

After discussing various parts of the opinion for several hours today, three of the four justices who heard the appeals left the courthouse, leaving Justice Braley to make some minor adjustments before placing it in the hands of the official reporter.

The document covers five typewritten pages.

Whatever may be his hopes from the State Supreme Court Attorney Arthur D. Hill of defense counsel, is busily preparing for his attempt to bring the case before the Supreme Court of the United States.

The attorney took the first steps toward filing a writ of certiorari, which if allowed, would bring the whole case up for review before the

GUARD ALL DYNAMITE AFTER MEDFIELD THEFT

Theft of 15 sticks of dynamite from a Medfield garage was reported to headquarters of the State police at the State House today, and State Fire Marshal George N. Neal immediately issued warning to all persons possessing explosives to guard them day and night.

The fire marshal's warning was contained in a letter to heads of fire departments in cities and towns throughout Massachusetts.

It came after Captain Thomas Bligh, head of the State detective force, had assigned two men to the hunt for the dynamite thieves and then had written to Massachusetts police chiefs, asking them to check up on all persons who have purchased firearms through mail order houses recently.

The theft of dynamite from the garage of Joseph Bruvo in Medfield was the third such theft to come to light recently. The others involved thefts from quarries in Reading and Quincy.

Fire Marshal Neal's letter to fire chiefs said:

"Please check up on all dynamite in your district and report to the State police about the upper part of the body and head.

Three other occupants of the machine escaped with a shaking and

WOMAN AND MAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH ON BRIDGE

Two persons were severely injured and three others shaken up today when an automobile operated by Anthony Jacobillo of Revere skidded on the wet planking of the Pines River bridge between Revere and Lynn and after crashing through the railing was stopped from a plunge into the water by a sidewalk curbing.

Miss Rae Miller, twenty, of No. 5 Beachland avenue, Revere, was the most seriously injured and is at Lynn Hospital with concussion of the brain, probable fracture of a leg and other injuries. Her name is on the danger list. Jacobillo is also at the hospital with severe cuts about the upper part of the body and head.

SCOUR PACIFIC FOR 2 MISSING PLANES; HOPE STRONG FOR MISS DORAN

San Francisco, Aug. 18—(AP)—By ship, aircraft and radio, search was being pressed today over the broad expanses of the mighty Pacific for the two missing entrants in the trans-oceanic air race to Honolulu.

The search was on almost before the two successful fliers had won the James D. Dole prizes of $25,000 and $10,000 by landing yesterday near Honolulu.

Interest centred largely in the fate of Miss Mildred Doran, pretty Flint, Mich., school teacher, who, the only woman in the Dole race, was a passenger in the biplane named in her honor, the Miss Doran, piloted by J. A. Pedlar of Flint and navigated by V. R. Knope, San Diego navy lieutenant.

The other missing aircraft was the cigar-shaped monoplane Golden Eagle, the Hearst plane, of which Jack Frost of New York was pilot and Gordon Scott of Santa Monica, Cal., navigator.

Two score vessels, more than half of them belonging to the United States Navy, were cruising over or speeding toward the path believed to have been followed by the missing planes.

To vessels on the steamship lanes to Hawaii the wireless agencies were broadcasting directions for a search over the surface of the waters, while aircraft hopped off from both mainland and Hawaii to scan the high seas for signs of the missing planes.

Captain W. P. Edwin and Navigator A. H. Elekwaldt of the monoplane Dallas Spirit, whose wind torn fuselage defeated their effort to get away as entrants in the Dole flight Tuesday, worked past midnight at the Oakland airport to be ready to take off on a searching flight, at the end of which they expected to land in Hawaii.

Providence, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Police and city officials of Cranston today were looking for a wooden bridge, twenty feet long, which disappeared during the night.

GENE TUNNEY ESCAPES CLASH WITH LUNATIC

Speculator, N. Y., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—Gene Tunney narrowly escaped violence from a madman today.

The champion had just returned from his morning workout on the road and was within fifty yards of his cottage when a savage 190-pound patient, who had escaped from the State Hospital in Utica, accosted him.

The madman demanded that the world's heavyweight championship be settled right there.

Gene's quick wit saved him. He pointed his right thumb over his shoulder at the crowd trailing him with a terse, "See my manager," and ducked into his cottage.

On the arrival of several sheriff's deputies, the man fled. An armed posse was organized, and after an hour's search through the woods the maniac was captured and returned to Utica.

'L' TIEUP IN RUSH HOUR

Hundreds of persons using the East Boston tunnel were delayed in reaching their employment today as a result of the derailment of a rapid transit train at Maverick square station, East Boston.

While rounding the loop at that point to return to Bowdoin square, a rear truck of one car left the rails. Another cross-over was used to accommodate following trains while the trouble was remedied.

POLICE PLAN HEAVY GUARD AT SACCO RALLY TONIGHT

A big detail of police in plain clothes will mingle with the Cirongs that are expected to attend the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting in Scenic Hall, on Berkeley street tonight, while a large reserve force of officers will be held in readiness for any emergency in the East Dedham street police station.

The police are not anticipating any trouble at the meeting, which has been arranged by the Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee, but no chances are being taken.

The inspectors assigned to the meeting have orders to see that no more persons are admitted to the hall than can be seated. The capacity of the hall is about 1,100 and when all the seats are occupied the doors will be ordered closed.

The meeting will be addressed by a number of leading radicals of the country.

It was announced at the defense committee headquarters that an effort was being made to obtain Heywood Broun, until recently a columnist on the New York World, as one of the speakers.

Broun and the World severed connections some days ago as a result of the Sacco-Vanzetti agitation. His wife, Ruth Hale, has been in Boston for some time.

Other speakers will be Robert Morse Lovett, editor of the New Republic; Paul Kellogg, editor of The Survey, and Powers Hapgood, who is facing a jail sentence for refusing to stop speaking on Boston Common when ordered to do so by the police.

Alfred Baker Lewis will preside at the meeting.

It was Hapgood and John S. Codman of the Civil Liberties Union who arranged the meeting and secured the hall, but first the officers of Station 2, the East Dedham street police station, refused to permit plans for the meeting to go forward.

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley finally decided, however, that there was no objection to the meeting being held, as long as the hall was not crowded and there was no demonstration on the streets.

The police are confident they can control the meeting inside the Temple. The officers are fearful, however, of disorder on the street in front of the hall, for it is believed certain that hundreds of radicals and radical sympathizers will be unable to gain admittance to the hall on account of its small seating capacity.

RIOT SQUAD IS READY.

In the event of serious trouble, the riot squad, the members of which are scattered about the various station houses, will be mobilized and called into action to assist the reserves of the East Dedham street station.

The riot squad can be mobilized at police headquarter's in less than half an hour's time and the headquarters building is just around the corner from the scene of tonight's demonstration.

Ida M. Tarbell Joins Defense Committee

Headquarters of the Citizens' National Defense Committee for Sacco and Vanzetti in Boston announced today that they had received telegrams from Ida M. Tarbell, the writer, and Natalie Colby, wife of Bainbridge Colby, requesting membership in the organization.

Members of the committee also announced that Francis Fisher Kane had arrived in Boston from Philadelphia, and would work with the committee.

The Congregational Educational Department of Social Relations has received through the mails a long petition headed by the name of Jane Addams of Chicago, Dr. Alice Hamilton of Boston and Margaret H. Shurtleff, together with a request that the department send an endorsement of the 11th hour fight to Governor Fuller.

The request reads:

"To keep the door open, will you join with other responsible men and women believers in America in our 11th hour plea for commutation of sentence or stay of execution until all doubts are removed and justice achieved?"

Obregon Sends a Mystery Wire to Sacco Defense

The Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee has a mystery on its hands.

Former President Alvara Obregon of Mexico, now labor candidate for re-election in that republic, sent the committee a telegram from San Luis Potosi, as follows:

"Answer delayed till today. I am in advice of your message. I am considering the matter. A. Obregon."

Neither Chairman Gardner Jackson nor any member of the committee has any knowledge of any message having been sent to Obregon in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case. A search of the committee's correspondence files also failed to disclose any record of a communication having been sent to Obregon.

highest tribunal in the land. From the clerk of the Federal Court in this city, Mr. Hill secured the necessary forms for the writ. It will be filed in Washington.

The filing of the petition does not automatically stay the execution of the two men, which is scheduled to take place just after midnight of August 22, only five days away. To have the country's highest court consider the case it will be necessary to secure an order of notice from some justice of that body to delay the execution.

It is considered unlikely that Governor Fuller will grant the men another respite.

IN GOOD SHAPE

In his argument before the full bench of the Supreme Court on Tuesday, Mr. Hill disclosed the fact that Justice Holmes did not go into the merits of the case when he dismissed the appeal for a writ of habeas corpus eight days ago. This statement, coupled with the declaration of Justice Brandeis, the only other member of the United States Supreme Court in this section, that he did not wish to be involved in the case, indicates that it will be to Justice Holmes that the defense council must again appeal to.

In a supplementary brief prepared by Attorneys Hill, Field and Evarts, answer was made today to arguments by Attorney-General Reading at the appeal hearing Tuesday.

In presenting this brief, Attorney Hill went before the four Supreme Court Justices who were busy preparing their decision at the Pemberton square courthouse and Acting Chief Justice Henry J. Braley gave him permission to file it. In the brief defense counsel declared:

"The Attorney General apparently argues that Judge Thayer's prejudicial bias, even if shown to exist, is not material unless it was communicated to the jury. That this is not the law appears not only from the argument and authorities contained in the petitioners' former brief but is also made clear by other cases.

"The Commonwealth's briefs seem to disregard the very clear distinction between cases where a judge has a personal bias or prejudice against the defendants before him as individuals or members of a class, and cases in which the judge simply formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant before him.

"In this case the only question is: 'Was the judge disqualified by his prejudiced state of mind toward persons holding the political and economic opinions attributed to these defendants?'"

The defense also attacked the Attorney General's contention that issuance of a writ of error is entirely within the discretion of a single justice, stating:

"Diligent search has disclosed no case in which a single justice has made a final disposition of a petition for a writ of error. In the Webster case, the single justice, to whom the application was made, adjourned the hearing to the full court and this precedent has been uniformly followed to the present time."

Vanzetti's Sister Plans to Make Plea Before Fuller

When Bartolomeo Vanzetti's sister —whose arrival the condemned man is anxiously awaiting—arrives tomorrow in New York on the Aquitania, she will be welcomed to America by Mrs. Rose Sacco.

Following a visit to her husband and Vanzetti today, Mrs. Sacco was to leave for New York with Mrs. Jessica Henderson of Wayland and Aldino Felicani, treasurer of the Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee, and Mrs. Henderson's automobile.

"I will make my plea to Governor Fuller and I do not believe he can refuse me clemency for my brother and his companion," was Luigia Vanzetti's wirelessed message to Boston sympathizers.

Upon arriving in New York, she will be brought directly to Boston and will be taken to State prison as soon as possible to see her brother. [illegible] Vanzetti's chief thought today in conversation with those who visited him.

Later she will go before the Governor, if the chief executive grants her an audience.

It is also likely that the Italian girl will play a leading part in a protest meeting of sympathizers, as she did in Paris while being detained by immigration authorities.

Vanzetti and Sacco both ate heartily of groped eggs on toast, milk and coffee for breakfast today, while Celestino Madeiros had the regular prison fare. Dr. Joseph McLaughlin reported that the physical condition of all three was good and Warden Hendry denies reports that Vanzetti's condition was causing alarm.

All three condemned men were served the prison fare of beef stew, bread and coffee at noon. Sacco complained to the prison physician of trouble with his stomach and said he was "being fed too much." He was told to use his own judgment as to the amount of food he took. Vanzetti was reported in good spirits and was munching apples between meals.

From Mrs. Gertrude Winslow, Boston society woman, Mary Donovan of the defense committee received the following cablegram today:

"Wonderful visit with both families. Audience with Mayor of Torremaggiore. Welcomed by whole town. Sympathy everywhere."

Mrs. Winslow, who went abroad several weeks ago, expressed the intention of visiting the families of the condemned men.

Priest Gives Support to Sacco's Defense

Rev. John A. Ryan, of Catholic University, Washington, and known as a leader in constructive social welfare and labor movements, today gave his support to the cause of Sacco and Vanzetti.

At the headquarters of the Citizens National Committee for Sacco and Vanzetti at the Hotel Bellevue it was stated that a telegram was received last night from Fisher Ryan, who is at San Diego, Cal., accepting a place on the national committee. The committee has been organized to wage a campaign for the intervention of President Coolidge in the case and the opening of the Department of Justice files.

MILTON ASKS FUND FOR THE M'HARDYS

Signed by fifteen leading citizens of Milton, an appeal to all residents of the town was sent out today for contributions to a fund designated as reimbursement to Lewis McHardy, Sacco-Vanzetti juror, whose home in East Milton was bombed.

The appeal was authorized by the Milton selectmen and Josiah Babcock, acting chairman and a member of the Legislature, is one of the signers. It says:

"To the Citizens of Milton: For over forty years Lewis McHardy has been a respected, law-abiding citizen of this community.

"He was drawn as our representative on the Sacco-Vanzetti jury and in the discharge of his duties, obeying the laws of the Commonwealth, he voted honestly and courageously according to his convictions.

"The attempt to kill him and his family and destroy his property on Tuesday morning, August 16, gives his fellow-citizens an opportunity to show their appreciation of his manliness and courage in a practical and helpful manner. To replace his property loss will require at least $18,000. Will you join in raising this amount?

"A contribution to make good this loss will not only show your sympathy, but also your belief and determination that no citizen shall suffer financial loss in the performance of his obligations to the State. We are sure that money could not be spent in a better cause.

"Contrary to some reports, there are no State, county or town funds available for such reimbursement. Prompt action is essential. Checks should be drawn to the order of J. B. Baxter, treasurer, and mailed to the Blue Hill National Bank."

SHOOT TO KILL ORDER GUARDS ARSENAL

The marine guard about the naval munitions depot at Hingham was ordered increased today and the marines were ordered to "shoot to kill" as the result of the mysterious actions of three men who approached the depot late at night and were fired on by a guard when they took to their heels after being ordered to halt.

Captain Hilary H. Royal, who is in command of the field, today ordered fifty marines on day and night guard duty about the big plant.

Captain Royal conducted a thorough investigation of the early morning visitors to the munitions plant, but he had not made public his findings.

The men alighted from an automobile and approached the high fence around the reserve depot, using an abandoned house near the main entrance of the depot as a screen. The corporal of the guard had noticed the men leave the car, however, and a guard was in waiting as the strangers walked to the fence.

The guard man ordered the men to halt. Instead they turned and ran, the guard firing seven shots after them from his revolver One of the men stumbled and is believed to have been struck by a bullet.

More than 2,000,000 pounds of TNT and tons of other high explosives are stored at the Hingham depot and Captain Royal, aroused by the visit of the prowlers, has placed sufficient guards to thoroughly protect the entire establishment.

The marines today were ordered to shoot to kill in the event a stranger approaches the depot and refuses to halt when ordered to do so.

ARMY DESERTER ALSO WANTED FOR THEFT

Federal officers, interrupting a secret tryst early today in Norwood, captured Arch E. Gowdy, fugitive from justice in Georgia and alleged escaped prisoner from the guardhouse on Fort Warren in Boston Harbor.

Gowdy has been indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in Georgia on the charge of transporting a stolen automobile from that State into Florida and is wanted by army authorities to finish five months of a year's sentence imposed upon him by a First Corp Area General Court-martial, last March.

Department of Justice operatives, seeking Gowdy for the Georgia authorities, traced him to Montreal recently and discovered he was communicating by mail with his sweetheart in Norwood.

They learned of his secret visit to her home and arrested him today as he was about to return to the Canadian city.

Gowdy was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner E. C. Emery, who held him in default of bail pending his voluntary return to Georgia to face the automobile theft charge.

GOTHAM LAWYER URGES 6 MONTHS SACCO RESPITE

Charles Ferguson, member of the New York bar and a former special agent of the United States Department of Commerce, called at the Sacco-Vanzetti defense headquarters in Hanover street today to suggest that the New England Chamber of Commerce ask Governor Fuller to stay the execution for six months.

"During that time," he said, "the Department of Commerce should request the Department of Justice to throw wide open everything in its records that has the slightest bearing on the Sacco-Vanzetti case."

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The great and the humble who knew Elbert H. Gary and called him friend, gathered today at his bier to pay him final tribute.

Funeral services in the beautiful church which the steel master built as a memorial to his parents brought not only the kings and princes of the world of business, but also neighbors and townsmen of the farm boy who rose to captain of a great industry.

There was a brief ceremony arranged for the church, with music by a quartet chosen by old friends of Mr. Gary, who knew his wishes for simple rites. The funeral sermon was prepared by the Right Rev. Frederick D. Leete, Methodist bishop of Indianapolis, with prayers by Rev. James T. Ladd of Elgin, Rev. Ernest Tittle of Evanston and Rev. A. M. Pennewell, pastor of the Gary Memorial Church.

D'Annunzio in Poetic Salute to 'Old Glory'

Rome, Aug. 18.—Gabriel D'Annunzio, poet, soldier and aviator, lyrically salutes the Hearst fliers about to hop to Rome in Old Glory. D'Annunzio, Prince of Monte Neveso, now living in the magnificent Villa Vittorale on Lake Garda, writes:

Lynn police are scouring that city today for a young girl who for some days past has been visiting the ward rooms of various shoe factories in Lynn, slashing the coats and hats of girl workers.

Today the girl entered the ward-room of the Horne Shoe Company at No. 604 Washington street and slashed into ribbons the coat of Miss Mae Arrabes of Pine street, Swampscott. The girl apparently uses a penknife in her work of destruction.

According to the police, the girl is about eighteen years of age, with bobbed hair.

She was seen leaving the Horne factory today, but no adequate description of her was secured.

FOG AND HAZE DELAY SHIPS; RAIN DUE

A combination of a smoky-haze and fog delayed ferry craft and shipping in general today.

Nantasket boats ran at half-speed during the early hours because of the thick weather. The steamer Boston from New York by way of the Cape Cod canal was forced to loaf along.

Incoming steamers from Maine ports ran on schedule time until they had passed Boston light.

According to the pilot of the New York-Boston mail airplane the fog and smoke was of the low hanging type, with clear weather 200 feet up. Beyond Boston light and along the New Hampshire coast, the weather was clear.

Later in the forenoon it began to rain, splashes at first and then a steady fall. According to the weather man, the conditions are due to a cool wave heading this way from the Rockies. In Maine and Vermont something like Fall temperatures prevailed with the mercury at 42 and 44 degrees above zero.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy, probably with showers tonight; Friday fair; not much change in temperature; moderate north to west winds.

KEEN HEARING FOILS FIREBUG

Falmouth, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The sharp ears of Elias Rose, veteran town employe, whose task it is to arrive at the stone crusher at 2 a. m. and get up steam for the engines, are believed to have saved the building from serious damage, if not destruction, by two incendiaries early this morning.

Hearing footsteps outside the crushing plant shortly after he had begun work, Rose looked out and saw two young men bending over lighted matches against the side of the building. They fled when he shouted at them, and drove away in an auto.

Rose then saw only a short distance away the tool shed of Sidney Lawrence, Woods Hole road contractor, ablaze. He summoned firemen, who had just returned from a six-mile run to Hatchville, to extinguish a fire in an unoccupied cranberry bog house.

The tool shed was destroyed, and the valuable road machinery it housed was ruined.

"Brake Being Used as Motor" to Rule People

Williamstown, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Straightening out the basic paradox in governmental organization is prerequisite to tranquil progress of the world, Allegeno Ireland, fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, told the Institute of Politics today.

Organized originally as a barrier against the abuse of power, government has become an instrument of public service, he asserted, and obsolete governmental machinery is still maintained.

"We are trying to use for a motor an instrument especially designed to act as a brake," he said.

RETREAT FOR 800 PRIESTS

The annual retreat for all the priests of the archdiocese of Boston will begin Monday in St. John's Ecclesiastical Seminary, Brighton. More than 800 pastors and curates, as well as Cardinal O'Connell and the other archdiocesan prelates, will attend the retreat during one week out of the four that it will continue.

The exercises this year will be conducted by a member of the Passionist Order, and a monsignor will be designated each week to preside.

'I KILLED HIM!' SAYS GIRL

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 18 (A. P.)—While the authorities of Wayne county continued their investigation, Gertrude Card, pretty 20-year-old country girl, was held in prison at Honesdale, today, on a charge of murdering Anthony Shaldone, 38, World War veteran, of Binghamton, N. Y., at Poyntelle, Pa., Tuesday night.

"I shot Shaldone. I had to do it. He came after me with a gun to take me away and I killed him," said Miss Card when arraigned.

The girl said she had worked for Shaldone in a restaurant at Binghamton four years ago and that he abused her so she left.

Shaldone and three other men went to Poyntelle Tuesday night in an attempt to kidnap the Card girl, police said.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Polo and Racing Engaging Attention of Society as Summer Wanes

POLO AND RACING; THESE loom large and important from now until Autumn prints its brilliance on the landscape. King Horse, the one that foots it gaily down the course and the one that knowingly follows the polo ball; these occupy the throne, with all society as adoring subjects. Having done the right thing by its pet philanthropies and polished off with strenuous tennis and yachting, the fashionables turn eagerly to the sports kings and princes favor.

LIKE THE LIVERPOOL GRAND National, its forerunner by many years, the big event of the racing year to Bostonians and others is the Grand National Steeplechase run, September 17, during the Westchester Racing Association's Autumn meet. Boston's interest is first hand, because Bayard Warren and other fine sportsmen like him have sponsored the race financially, and some will have their steeplechasers entered. Such names as Vaughan, Warren, Tuckerman, Macomber, Almy, Prince, Bird, Sortwell, Pingree, Burrage, Shaw, Dabney, Appleton, Bowditch, Danielson, Goodwin, Gagnebin. These come to mind.

JUST NOW MESSRS. BAYARD Warren and Bayard Tuckerman are at Saratoga, whither the fashionables go to follow the races. The Augustus F. Goodwins are in the famous spa, also because of the sport. The international polo matches at Westbury mean a social exodus from Boston to the smart club on Long Island. Belmont Park takes certain of the leisured wealthy class with a predilection for sport.

THE GRAND NATIONAL follows immediately after the polo matches. Surely 'tis sufficient to keep keen the interest of the most indefatigable follower. And for good measure there are thet hunts meets about Boston, with the Willowdale event over Bradley Palmer's broad acres at Topsfield quite the creme de la creme.

IT'S MOST INTERESTING TO note that the portion of Boston's smart set adoring fine horseflesh boast two women "masters of fox hounds," putting them immediately into the category with the famous Mrs. "Tom" Hitchcock, hailed not so long ago as the only "master" in the country. Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Jr., is master for Dedham Country and Polo Club, and Miss Dorothy Neyhart is joint master with Reginald Bird for Milwood, all of which lends interest to a sport already spectacular.

VERY TRIM AND TRIG WAS MRS. JOHN L. SALTONSTALL AS she sailed for France on the steamship Rochambeau. She wore an ensemble of wood brown, and from the crown of her small visca straw chapeau to the tips of trim brown shoes she was extremely smart. Pierre Monteux, honored of Bostonians as a former Symphony conductor, was also a passenger outbound on the Rochambeau, which takes across an extremely interesting group, including the Smith College students going over for their year of Grenoble and Paris.

MRS. OGDEN L. MILLS OF NEWPORT AND HER CHILDREN

MRS. JAMES CUMMINGS BARR, OF NEW YORK, LONG ISLAND and New Hampshire, often finds it pleasant to make a Boston sojourn en route to or from the Barr homestead at New Ipswich in the Granite State hills. Mrs. Barr registered recently at the Ritz-Carlton after a stay at New Ipswich and before going down to Nantucket, Mrs. Barr's friends are glad to know of her recuperation, slow but sure, in which the salubrious breezes that play over Nantucket will have a part.

IT REMAINS FOR MR. PAUL BARRON WATSON TO SPEND HIS Summer amid ideal surroundings. Mr. Watson is the owner of a charming Normandy farm, on which he lives a glorified country existence the while Mrs. Watson moves hither and yon about the Continent, on travel bent. Mrs. Watson went over quite early in the Spring and Mr. Watson followed. They will not be back in town until some time in the Autumn.

CROWDS MOURN JUDGE GARY

chairman of the corporation's board of directors.

Hearst Sees Gary as One of Really Great Men of U. S.

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—The following telegram has been sent by William Randolph Hearst to Mrs. E. H. Gary:

Mrs. Elbert H. Gary,
856 5th Ave.
New York, N. Y.

"I am grieved beyond expression to hear of the death of your wonderful husband and my dear friend, Judge Gary. His departure from this life is a very serious loss to the country. He was one of the nation's truly great men.

"All the heroes of the nation are not Presidents and generals and political figures. On the contrary, in this immense industrial nation and in this era of big business some of the greatest of our national figures are to be found among the captains of industry. Judge Gary was a great captain, a great leader of men, a profound and progressive thinker advancing new and sound ideas.

"He was a wonderful executive and a clear, logical and convincing speaker. He not only did as much as any man living to advance the interests of big business and the interests of the country dependent on big business, but he did an enormous amount to popularize big business, to make the captains of industry and finance appreciate their obligations to the public and, on the other hand, to make the public realize the value of these great captains to the progress and prosperity of the nation.

"The whole country will mourn Judge Gary's death and will miss his powerful influence, so valuable to the nation. His friends will mourn him more because they know how kindly and how loyal he was in his friendships, how genial and generous he was in his social relations.

"No one will take Judge Gary's place but it is to be hoped that someone will be found to carry on his good and great work. I beg to offer you my deepest sympathy and sincerest condolence.

"William Randolph Hearst."

pagne. But why carry the prize fighting into so many homes?

Don't prize fight promoters realize that radio broadcasting will stop their prize fighting eventually? Clergymen here and there will be aroused as they listen to the interesting fight news coming in over the radio, and then there will be trouble. Many clergymen, fortunately, are interested in things more important to human salvation than Darwin's monkey theory—which, by the way, was never taught by Darwin.

Texas editors and Texas lawyers enjoyed an interesting fight. E. G. Senter, who founded the Fort Worth Gazette, and is a lawyer, says most lawyers and the system of justice in Texas need reforming and adds, "the editors will whip the lawyers to a frazzle." In a speech before a convention of editors, Mr. Senter said: "In Dallas, fifty lawyers ought to be in the penitentiary right now."

Perhaps after the editors have reformed the lawyers, the latter will combine and reform the editors. Some of them need it. If Dallas has fifty lawyers that "ought to be in the penitentiary right now," we wonder how many there are in Chicago, New York, etc.

One great danger in ocean flying is the formation of ice on the wings. Couldn't an all-metal monoplane be arranged to divert the frightfully hot discharge of gas and air from the exhaust and cause it to circulate inside of the wings and keep them warm enough to melt sleet as it formed? Or perhaps some scientist will invent a substance that, spread over the wings, will prevent ice formation. Nature cannot do anything that man cannot thwart. He lives at the equator, where polar bears would suffocate, and at the North Pole, where elephants and lions would freeze.

FORBES AGAINST FREEING P. I.

Williamstown, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The Filipinos "have not, in the opinion of the most careful observers, yet had enough training successfully to manage their affairs," said W. Cameron Forbes, Governor-General of the Philippines during the Taft administration, at the Institute of Politics here today.

Before the islands can be assured of a stable, independent government, he said, the condition of the laboring classes, upon whom popular government rests, must still be improved. He pointed out that under the American administration of the islands, these classes had benefited greatly, but said that public education should be extended to the point that the working classes can intelligently participate in government and protect their rights before the islands are turned over to native administration.

HUB MAN ARRESTED; CANADIAN ALE SEIZED

Newport, Vt., Aug. 18.—William Ranahan, giving his residence as East Boston, was apprehended by Customs Officers Field and Bashaw near Barton with a load of 35 cases of Canadian ale and porter valued at $1,400.

The load was concealed under a false bottom of a brand new heavy duty three-ton speed wagon.

CHINESE BOMB NANKING

London, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—The commander of the Northern army on the Yangtse front has sent an ultimatum to the commander of the Cantonese demanding the surrender of Nanking by noon today and threatening a heavy bombardment of the city in event of refusal, according to a Central News dispatch from Shanghai.

Later advices stated the bombardment of Nanking by the Northern army had begun. The Central News correspondent in Shanghai reported the bombardment was the heaviest of the war.

In addition to shelling the city, the dispatch says, the Northern army also dropped bombs on Nanking.

The Cantonese are retreating toward Soochow and commandeering all railroad stock.

Chinese Refuse to Return Wings of British Plane

Shanghai, China, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Both Chinese and British officials today denied a report that the Chinese had returned the wings of the British military plane seized after the plane had made a forced landing outside the international settlement here.

Quo Tai-Chi, local Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, said: "We will hold the wings until the question of illegal British flights over Chinese territory is settled."

OVATION TO WINNING FLIERS SADDENED BY MISSING PLANES

HOPE THAT LOST AIRSHIPS MAY BE KEPT AFLOAT

Crissy Field, the San Francisco army airport, awaiting orders to soar to the extent of their cruising radius over the mainland and of the Dole race course.

The Miss Doran was prepared to float for a long time unless a too sudden descent into the Pacific prevented draining the gasoline from its tanks.

The Golden Eagle was equipped to fill tanks on wing ends and the gear of the fuselage with air by the turning of a valve from an air tank in the navigator's cabin.

From San Diego the Navy air craft carrier Langley and tender Aroostook were steaming north with seaplanes and observation planes and skilled naval pilots aboard, prepared to go aloft in the search after the vessels turn west on the course to Honolulu.

42 Ships Comb Pacific Wastes for 5 Missing Hawaiian Fliers

Washington, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Marshalling the greatest fleet of vessels at its command in the Pacific, the Navy Department today had 42 ships of various descriptions under orders to search for the missing Hawaiian flight planes "Miss Doran" and "Golden Eagle."

Most of the ships were under way early today, while the others are awaiting only the stocking up with provisions to speed out into the broad wastes along the 2,400-mile flight course in hope of finding the five missing fliers alive.

The armada of naval craft, which will be assisted in the wide search by airplanes and commercial craft, includes seven destroyers out of San Francisco, four destroyers en route from Honolulu to Seattle, 23 submarines and three submarine tenders from the Pearl Harbor station, the aircraft carrier Langley and the aircraft tender Aroostook.

The submarine S-29 was reported speeding to San Francisco from Honolulu, while the submarines S-15 and S-18 were being overhauled in Hawaii to join in the quest.

The search is in charge of Admiral R. H. Jackson, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, who is on the destroyer McDonough en route to Seattle from Honolulu.

Rear-Admiral Ridley McLean, commander of the submarine division, reported that the twenty-three submarines and three submarine tenders which were in Hawaiian waters engaged in practical manoeuvres, were now deployed on a scouting line at right angles to the course of the planes.

Seven destroyers are conducting the search operations from San Francisco.

The carrier Langley and the tender Aroostook sailed at 10 p. m. last night from San Diego for the nearest point on the great circle course between San Francisco and Honolulu. When the Langley sets in position it will send up airplanes to increase the searching area.

Rear-Admiral Thomas Washington, commander of the 12th Naval District at San Francisco, reported to the Navy Department that no reports of the missing planes had been received.

Winning Fliers Saddened by Uncertain Fate of Lost Planes

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—With two of the Dole planes believed down at sea, Art Goebel, pilot of the Woolaroc, and Martin Jensen of the Aloha, winners of the $25,000 and $10,000 first and second prizes for the great 2,400-mile air race, had no heart for their honors today.

The exhilaration of all Hawaii did not compensate the fliers for anxiety they felt over the safety of "Auggy" Pedlar, Vilas Knope and Mildred Doran, the "Flying Schoolmarm," of the Michigan biplane, and of Jack Frost and Gordon Scott in the Hearst "Golden Eagle."

"Boy, we did it," was the happy exclamation of Art Goebel as he and his navigator, Lieutenant W. V. Davis, stepped from their plane at 12:22 p. m., Hawaiian time, yesterday, to discover that they were the winners of the world's greatest air race.

ANXIETY FELT

Immediately, however, their joy faded. They learned that no word had been heard of Hearst's "Golden Eagle" or of the "Miss Doran" since passing the Farallones, thirty miles off the California coast.

Jensen, who landed with his navigator, Paul Schulter, had the same reception for Joe and Martin Jensen cruised in upon Wheeler field two hours after Goebel.

Anxiety was felt everywhere throughout the islands, counteracting, to a great degree, the overflowing jubilation that had been felt in the flight itself, and in the fact that "Marty" Jensen, the Honolulu flier, won second place. No one, however, was more concerned than William F. Malloska, Flint, Mich. oil man and backer of the Pedlar-Doran flight.

Malloska, confident that the "Miss Doran" would win the race, came to Hawaii from Michigan to welcome personally Pedlar and "the flying schoolmarm" upon their arrival in the islands.

Today, however, he was a broken man. He stood watch on Wheeler Field from early morning till late at night. At the hour passed with no word from the "Miss Doran." Malloska wilted into the stupor of despair. Hunched over upon his knees, he sat motionless, without animation or interest.

In terrible contrast to the happy merriment of the giant throng that crowded Wheeler Field yesterday, strumming ukuleles and cheering boisterously, were the small groups of solemn-faced watchers that clustered upon Wheeler Field today.

CALLED CRAZY

The thought that somewhere in the Pacific five of the Dole fliers have gone down dampened their spirits and killed their joy.

James Dole, sponsor of the race, was another anxious watcher. His first flush of satisfaction in the arrival of Goebel and Jensen compassed with the increasing alarm over the safety of the two missing planes.

Plans for the entertainment of the fliers were held up today, though the nearest point on the great circle course between San Francisco and Honolulu. When the Lansley sets in position it will send up airplanes to increase the searching area.

Rear-Admiral Thomas Washington, commander of the 12th Naval District at San Francisco, reported to the Navy Department that no reports of the missing planes had been received.

"Miss Doran" Can Float on Empty Gas Tank

PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The biplane "Miss Doran," missing in the Dole race from Oakland to Honolulu, would float indefinitely if forced down on the ocean, Herbert Hughes, manager of the Buhl Aircraft Company, builders of the plane, said today.

"The gasoline tank on the 'Miss Doran' would support the plane if it were empty," said Mr. Hughes. "The tank was equipped with a ten-inch dump valve by means of which the tank could be speedily emptied. Closing the valve would make the container a sort of life preserver that would keep the ship afloat indefinitely."

Mother of Goebel "Delighted, Not Surprised"

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Arthur C. Goebel was "delighted but not surprised" when informed that her son, Art Goebel, had won the air race from Oakland to Honolulu.

Mrs. Goebel had maintained a constant vigil all through the night and up to the time she received word over the telephone of her son's success.

"I'm just delighted that Art won," she said, "I never feared he would fail.

"I was sure he would make it, because what ever Art sets out to do he is certain to accomplish.

SEES HOPE FOR LOST FLIERS

San Francisco, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The fate of the Miss Doran was cause for greatest anxiety, owing to the fear it may have been forced down soon after it left the starting point and dumped into the sea with a ton of gasoline in the tanks. The possibilities of a smashup and quick sinking before large in this picture, for the plane's load would have made a landing at sea a most hazardous task, but hope is still held out.

Hearst's Golden Eagle presented a more hopeful prospect. It was sent into the race equipped to care for just such an emergency. Its aviator was considered one of the most skillful and Pilot Frost had a machine performing perfectly at the takeoff.

Lieutenant Ben Wyatt, who made all navigation tests for the Dole entrants, made the following statement concerning the missing planes:

"I am of the opinion that the Mildred Doran plans was forced down by engine trouble. Pedlar the pilot, on his return to the field was warned against taking off again since I did not believe that changing the spark plugs would rectify the motor trouble which forced him back. I believe he experienced the same motor trouble that forced the Oklahoma out of the race.

"I am at a loss to explain the non-arrival of the Golden Eagle since this plane was probably the best equipped in the race.

"It is unfortunate that Miss Mildred Doran attempted the flight, but since she was determined to go nothing could be done to prevent it. Both Knope and Scott are good navigators and could put their ships in Honolulu barring any accident.

"Both planes are provided with rubber life rafts, three days emergency rations, smoke bombs and flares to attract attention."

OMAHA TO LET LINDY SLEEP

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who has been dined and entertained to the limit during the various stops on his national air tour, will find a welcome gift from the city of Omaha when he arrives August 20.

The present will take the form of a good night's rest for the flying Colonel. Acting Mayor John Hopkins announced today that the reception program for Lindbergh here has been arranged to allow him to retire at 9 p. m.

Huge Fog Beacon to Guide Plane 100 Miles Off

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A 180-foot water tower at this army airport was turned into a lighthouse for aviators today when what is believed to be one of the most powerful neon fog beacons ever made was installed.

The red light, flashing at one-second intervals, is believed to have a visibility of almost 100 miles in clear atmosphere. Tests are planned by aviators to determine the range of visibility through fog.

The beacon sheds no illumination, but because of the peculiar properties of the neon gas penetrates fog much farther than electric light.

It was ordered to guide the Junkers planes from Dessau, Germany.

Woolaroc Backer Plans $25,000 Prize Air Meet

Kansas City, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Company, who personally backed the Woolaroc, winner of the Dole Air Derby, announced an international aerial meet to be held in Artlesville, Okla., in October with cash prizes totalling $25,000.

James Dole, Prize Donor, Pleased With Flight

Wheeler Field, Honolulu, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Great satisfaction with the results of the prize transoceanic flight to Honolulu, together with the hope that other aviators in the race arrive safely, was expressed by James Dole, Hawaiian pineapple dealer, donor of the $25,000 prizes, after the safe arrival of Arthur Goebel and Martin Jensen.

"I want to express my great satisfaction with everything connected with the flight," said Dole. "My only hope is that the other aviators will be found."

Washington Officials Congratulate Winners

Washington, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Congruent again on the vast expanse of water between the mainland and Hawaii today brought forth expressions of praise in the capital for the crews of the Dole flight planes who successfully navigated the long, uncharted sea waste.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson announced he proposed to write a congratulatory letter to Lieutenant William V. Davis, young naval officer who served as navigator for Art Goebel, pilot of the Woolaroc, the winning plane.

Admiral Edward W. Eberle, chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval air service, both said the aviators were to be congratulated on their creditable performance.

MISSING PLANE BUILT FOR MISS DORAN

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—Here are the intimate details regarding the four persons who occupied the two missing planes:

Miss Mildred Doran of Flint, Mich., dubbed by newspapermen "the flying school marm" is twenty-two years old. She was born and educated in the city school at Flint until she took a course in advanced education and methods of teaching at the Ypsilanti, Mich., Normal School.

She then went back to Flint and taught a class in the fifth grade of the city schools. She lives with her father, who is an officer in the Lincoln Petroleum Company and is a resident of Flint.

Her mother died when Miss Doran was only six years old.

At a recent social gathering in her home city, Miss Doran read about the Dole flight and expressed a desire to enter it. W. F. Mellinka, president of the oil company in which her father is interested, offered to have a plane built and meet all expenses. He is now in Honolulu anxiously awaiting the arrival of the girl he has known since early childhood, and who is now his ward.

PEDLAR ONLY 24.

John A. Pedlar, pilot of the "Miss Doran," is only 24 years old, having been born in Butte, Mont., in 1903. His mother is Mrs. C. M. Joy of Miami, Fla. He has a married sister, Mrs. R. Graham, who maked her home in Long Beach, California. He won his place as pilot of the "Miss Doran" by chance.

When the aspirants had simmered down to two, the other aviator drew tails and "Auggy" had called heads. Pedlar went to Los Angeles in 1919 and immediately took up aviation. He has performed all sorts of stunts both for the movies and for those on ground.

His favorite stunt is to walk out on the wing of his plane while handcuffed. Recently, Pedlar has been employed as a test pilot for an aircraft corporation in Nebraska. He is known as one of the most daring and skilful aviators in the country.

TRAINED IN HUB.

Jack Frost, pilot of the Hearst "Golden Eagle," quit New York and the bond business to enter the Dole race. He made a name for himself as an army aviator and later became New York's first aerial policeman. He was formerly an assistant to the Postmaster General of the United States.

Frost is 29 years old, having been born in Chicago in 1898. He trained as an aviator at a Boston school shortly after the outbreak of the war. Later he went to Dallas, Texas, and became an instructor in the army school. In addition, Frost taught aerial acrobatics and aerial gunnery. He was on his way to France when the Armistice ended the war.

SEA NAVIGATOR.

Gordon Scott, navigator for Frost, is a sea navigator of wide experience. For some years before entering the Dole race, Scott has been engineer for the Douglas Aircraft Company of Santa Monica, Cal.

Only a year ago, Scott proved his ability as a navigator when he brought the 90-foot schooner Julilio, from the Hawaiian Islands to San Francisco in a yacht race. His only brother is also a navigator, Scott is unmarried. He is one of the few native sons of Southern California, having been born in the city which he now claims as his home, Santa Monica.

Flint Anxiously Awaits Word of Miss Doran

Flint, Mich., Aug. 18.—Any news of Miss Doran?

This query became a city's shibboleth when Flint united with the father and relatives of Miss Mildred Doran, the "flying school mistress" in anxiety over the fate of the Flint girl, who was last reported "somewhere over the Pacific Ocean."

With two of the planes on the mid-Pacific islands, neighbors, relatives and friends together with persons who had hitherto evinced scant interest in the transoceanic flight, sought information concerning the plane in which Miss Doran is flying toward Hawaii with her pilot, Albert Pedlar.

Newspaper and telegraph offices were besieged with telephone inquiries about the missing plane. In the homes of Miss Doran's relatives another sleepless night will pass waiting for information about the aviatrix who discarded superstition and started a second time for Hawaii after a preliminary failure.

PLUNGE IN ELEVATOR WELL KILLS YOUTH

After being crushed between a rising elevator and a wall, Harry Shonigo, twenty-one, watchman's helper, employed at the San Pe Company Chicolate Products plant at No. 179 Portland street, dropped fifty feet to his death in the elevator well early today.

Shonino was going from the second to the sixth floor when, in some unknown manner, he became wedged between the wall and the elevator. As the elevator passed the third floor gate Shonino's body was freed, only to topple downward when the rising elevator cleared it.

Dr. Levine of the Haymarket Relief Station responded to an emergency call with an ambulance and he pronounced Shonino dead.

HULL RESIDENTS TO HOLD CHARITY DINNER DANCE

Summer residents of Hull tomorrow evening will stage one of the gala social functions of the season, at the resort—a charity dinner-dance at the Pemberton Ill, Pemberton. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the Summer Vacation School for Children at Sunset Point, Nantasket, which is supervised by the Rev. Fr. O'Connor, diocesan director of charities.

Mrs. Harry G. Staples of Beach avenue, Kenberma, is actively in charge of the affair.

FLOGGER GETS 3 YEARS, SAYS HE IS 'WRONG MAN'

Soperton, Ga., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Raymond Lee was sentenced to from three to five years in the penitentiary today for his part in the whipping of H. M. Flanders, editor of the Soperton News. Before Judge Graham pronounced sentence, Lee told him "they had convicted the wrong man."

RETIRE NEAR TWO BILLIONS OF SECOND LIBERTIES

Washington, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Approximately $1,900,000,000 of the second Liberty loan issue has been retired since the March financing of the Treasury, Acting Secretary Mills announced today.

Retirement of this issue, which has been called for November 15, is "very satisfactory," Mr. Mills said, and the issues offered in exchange in the refunding operations are selling at a premium.

50,000 Babies a Day

New York, Aug. 18.—The population of the world—1,850,000,000—is increasing at an unprecedented rate, 50,000 a day, says Dr. Edward Alsworth Ross, sociologist, in a survey for the Century Magazine.

BRIGHTON BOY BADLY INJURED BY TRUCK

Benjamin T. Deagle, three, of No. 419 Faneuil street, Brighton, was seriously injured while crossing the street at Bigelow and Faneuil streets, by an automobile truck operated by Evans Anderson of No. 22 Bigelow street.

The boy was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital where he was found to be suffering from a fracture of the left leg and possible fracture of the skull.

The navy yard will be especially decorated for the occasion. Visitors will be admitted between 10 and 12 and 2 and 4, when the navy yard band will play.

FILM PRODUCERS ARE SUED BY PLAYWRIGHT

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—"Hogan's Alley," the film play, is the bone of contention in the suit brought against the Warner Brothers for $500,000, by Barney Gilmore, playwright and actor, who claims to be author of the play, and insists that his rights were violated by its production. He asks, pending the outcome of the suit, that Warner Brothers be enjoined from exhibiting the picture.

COOLIDGE OFF ON JAUNT TO YELLOWSTONE

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—Fresh from a 200-mile journey by steam and automobile to the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, President Coolidge prepared to hit the rails again today for still another sight seeing jaunt in South Dakota, his aides meanwhile making final arrangements for a ten-day trip, starting Sunday night, that will take him into Yellowstone National Park.

The travel mania that has overtaken the Chief Executive is overwhelming those around him. For four years he has been reluctant to leave Washington except for his Summer vacations, yet since his arrival in the Black Hills scarcely a week has passed but that a special train has been harnessed up to take him and his party somewhere, be it to view rodeos and frontier day celebrations, to dedicate memorials, or merely to fish and have his picture taken. Some weeks there have been several trips.

Plans for the remainder of the Summer indicate a whirlwind travelogue. Today's junket moves to Hot Springs, S. D., where are located the Battle Mountain Sanatorium for war veterans and the most classy country club of the hills.

The Yellowstone trip will take him to Sheridan, Wyo., Billings and Livingston, Mont., and then off through the park on a five-day "rubber-neck" tour.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated a willingness to go to Newell, S. D., on September 2 and take in a fair.

'HUB-TO-GULF' AIR MAIL LINE OPENS NOV. 1

Washington, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Bids on three additional contract air mail routes, which will add almost 1,500 miles to the growing network of mail flying airways of the country, were opened today by Postmaster-General New.

The new routes are between Atlanta and New Orleans, via Birmingham; Cincinnati and Chicago, via Indianapolis; and between St. Louis and Memphis.

The Atlanta-New Orleans service probably will begin by Nov. 1, when the New York-Atlanta air mail route is expected to start overnight service.

Inauguration of these two new air routes will place in operation what practically will be a trunk line between Boston and New Orleans, as the schedules of the two routes and the Boston-New York service will allow close connections.

Mail leaving Boston at 6:15 p. m. will be landed in New Orleans before noon the next day, in less than nineteen hours. Southern mail leaving New Orleans at 8:45 p. m. will reach New England points the forenoon of the following day.

KILLED WHILE HELPING NEIGHBOR FIX RADIO

Easthampton, Aug. 18.—John A. Strangford was killed when he fell from a ladder and struck his head on a cement walk.

He was helping a neighbor erect a radio aerial and had the ladder on the roof of his porch when it slipped and tumbled to the ground.

Miss Greenwood in West to Make Her Film Debut

By LOULLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—Long, lanky Charlotte Greenwood, whose "So Long Letty" sent everyone who saw it into convulsions of laughter, is bringing her eccentricities to the screen in "Baby Mine."

Miss Greenwood signed her contract in New York and immediately left for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, in Culver City. It is her first visit as a screen actress to Movieland.

The gawky Charlotte plays the role of Florence Dunbar—mother by proxy, whose babies multiply so rapidly there is both consternation and hysteria.

"Baby Mine" is one of the first of the George K. Arthur-Karl Dane comedies. George plays the best friend and the awkward Mr. Dane is Miss Greenwood's husband.

When they start buying scenarios that have already been filmed, you can guess that the dearth of suitable screen material is no idle jest.

"The Foreign Legion," Norman Kerry's next picture for Universal, is none other than "The Red Mirage," by I. A. R. Wylie. Ten years ago, when Lew Tellegen was courting Geraldine Farrar, he was starred in this same Mirage, which was then called, "The Unknown." If Mr. Kerry knows the history of his next picture he isn't telling. In answer to a query as to what he was going to do next, he replied that it is to be "Sophie Tucker's Revenge," and would be filmed at Reisenweber's, New York. Much better, let us postscript, to remake an old film than to buy new stories that are doubtful.

Wouldn't you say Mary Philbin is a David Wark Griffith type? Universal's favorite ingenue is certainly a combination of Mary Pickford and Bessie Love, both of them Griffith discoveries.

The actual papers loaning Miss Philbin to United Artists for the leading role in a "Romance of Old Spain," the next Griffith picture, were completed last week.

Colleen Moore gets home today. With her is her husband, John McCormick, who took Colleen by the hand when he left First National as general manager, and with her departed for New York. Now, John and Colleen have come home to make "I'll Tell the World" as the Metropolitan Studio.

If you think for a moment that no one is producing pictures in New York, you are wrong. There must be someone making pictures there, for Edna Murphy left yesterday for Manhattan to star in a drama to be made by a feature color production organization.

With Charlie Murray out of the running in "The Cohens and the Kellys in Paris," every available Irishman in the business has had tests made at Universal. So far there isn't a Kelly in sight, although work is scheduled to begin Monday.

OFFICIAL OF PACIFIC MILLS RESIGNS

Lawrence, Aug. 18—H. B. Taylor, for the last 11 years superintendent of the local cotton manufacturing department of the Pacific Mills, has tendered his resignation, to take effect Saturday.

He will be succeeded by H. A. Newton, superintendent of the Cochecco Mills of the Pacific Corporation at Dover, N. H., who will hold both positions.

Mr. Taylor came to Lawrence from the Arnold Print Works at North Adams 17 years ago as overseer of the Pacific Cotton Yarn Mill. After six years he was made superintendent of the cotton yarn department.

"OTTO GROW" ENJOYED THIS BIRTHDAY PARTY

"Otto Grow," whose funny sayings are read and quoted all over the country, was a birthday occasionally, even as you and I.

A number of "Otto's" friends gathered together and presented him with a token of their esteem and regard. The curious hyphenated might have marked a small gathering which congregated in the doorway of "Otto's" magazine and newspaper shop on Huntington avenue about 8 o'clock, later to adjourn to a spot more fitting the celebration of such a momentous event.

According to "Otto," a "good time was had by all."

BROKER, 81, WEDS WRITER, 30, 3 DAYS AFTER DIVORCE

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Frederick Langdon Yates, Rochester, N. Y., broker, divorced three days ago, was married to Mrs. Emma Eames Cox, a writer of Hartford, Ct., in the marriage chapel of the Municipal building today. The bridegroom, who is 81 years old, was divorced in Philadelphia by Mildred Brown Yates on Monday. He is the son of Frederick William Yates of Rochester. Mrs. Cox, who is 30, was divorced from Arthur J. Cox at Cody, Wyo., two years ago.

BOY IS WOUNDED BY BULLETS FROM FIRE

William C. Mackie, 12 years old, of No. 163 K street, South Boston, is in City Hospital today with a bullet wound in his right leg, the result of a peculiar accident.

The youngster found a handful of 32-calibre revolver cartridges in an automobile abandoned in a field off First street. He threw them into a brushwood fire, and stood nearby to see what would happen.

In an instant the boy was a target for a fusillade of bullets, which whistled by his head, forcing him to flee.

FLEE AUTO BEFORE TRAIN DEMOLISHES IT AT ONSET

Onset, Aug. 18.—An automobile owned and operated by Walter Anderson of Quincy became stalled on the New Haven railroad tracks here and was demolished by a Boston bound train. Mr. Anderson and others in the machine had time to reach a place of safety, but their attempts to flag the train proved futile, and it rounded a curve and was on the car before its presence was discovered by the crew.

AIRPLANE WING MAY BE A CLUE TO NUNGESSER

Washington, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—The U. S. Coast Guard today ordered the destroyer Shaw to proceed from the New London base to a point about 150 miles off Cape Charles, where incoming vessels reported sighting a broken airplane wing in the water.

The wing was said to have been white-tipped, as were the wings on Lieut. Charles Nungesser's ill-fated transatlantic plane. Coast Guard officials believed the bit of wreckage might afford a clue to the fate of the French flyers.

PERFORM AUTOPSY ON BODY OF PROF. SALMON

New Haven, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—An autopsy was performed today upon the body of Dr. Thomas William Salmon, professor of psychiatry at Columbia University, who was drowned off his yacht, Malabar II., off Westbrook, Saturday, at Yale Medical School. Dean Milton C. Winternitz said he was not ready to make known his conclusions based upon the autopsy. Dr. Salmon's body was found by a fisherman off Fisher's Island yesterday.

A preliminary report made by Dr. H. A. Tyler of the Coast Guard, who had viewed the body at New London, was to the effect that probably Prof. Salmon had a fainting spell and fell overboard. After the autopsy the body was sent to Dorset, Mass., for interment in the family vault.

GIRL RESCUED FROM 5 BOLD KIDNAPERS

Worcester, Aug. 18.—Local police are seeking five desperate kidnapers following the story sobbed out by their victim, Gladys Wilson, 16, a story that out-thrills even the movies.

There was the kidnaping in the dark under a bridge, the screaming girl thrown into an automobile, and finally the appearance in the nick of time of the handsome hero who cowed the cutthroats as is the custom with movie heroes.

Gladys, living at No. 67 Portland street, was walking along Franklin street, which passes under railroad tracks. As she reached the center of the underpass a touring car containing five men stopped abruptly by her. The gang had evidently followed the girl and figured the underpass a favorable place to seize her as it screened their actions.

Two of the men leaped out, seized the girl and placed her in the car which sped away.

In spite of the men's efforts to stifle the girl's cries, Gladys, fighting desperately, managed to scream loud enough to attract attention of Donald Stone, who was coming along in the rear in an automobile.

Stone put on speed. His car was faster than that of the kidnapers and he overhauled and passed it, then managed to stop so as to block the way.

Jumping from his car Stone gamely ran to the kidnapers, with whom Gladys was still struggling, and demanded they release her.

Following up his demand Stone jumped on the running board and tried to pull the girl from their grasp.

Despite their overwhelming numbers, the kidnapers became so alarmed they released the girl and shot their car ahead just as Stone and Gladys leaped to the roadway.

Stone quieted the terrified girl, put her in his car and drove to her home without attempting pursuit of the gang. As soon as he had the girl in her mother's house Stone notified the police, giving them a description.

Neither he nor the girl, in the excitement, had taken the registration number of the car. General alarm was sent out for the kidnapers.

AUTOIST HURLED 25 FEET BY LOCOMOTIVE

Providence, R. I., Aug. 18.—While driving his machine home Wilbur Chrisholm, 18, of North Quidnesset, was struck by a locomotive on a New Haven-Boston train and was hurled 25 feet.

He was picked up by the crew and war later taken to the Rhode Island Hospital where his condition is reported as serious.

DRY EUROPE IS LONG WAY OFF, ANTIS ADMIT

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Prohibition in the European countries is an accomplishment not to be looked for for a long time, in the opinion of delegates to the congress of the World League Against Alcoholism in session here.

While "Pussyfoot" Johnson, veteran dry crusader, believes that prohibition in America is a success, foreign delegates seeking information regarding conditions in America were dubious of the outcome of such far-reaching methods in other countries.

"Conditions, of course, are not perfect," Johnson said, "but it is pure 'bunk' to say that the American people are drinking more today than they did before prohibition and to declare that the young people are drinking more than they ever did."

Rev. Henry Carter, secretary of Social Welfare of the Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal Church, England, said:

"Drinking of alcohol in England has decreased 40 per cent. in the last ten years, due to the increased cost of liquor, the limitation of hours for selling and the general economic condition of the country."

TOO ACTIVE MIND, TOO MUCH TOIL, THEN DEATH

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Overstudy and a too-active mind were attributed by her father today as the cause of the suicide of Miss Mildred Alice Barber, twenty-year-old art student, whose body was found in a gas-filled room in a West Fifty-first street lodging house.

"My daughter was a student at Bryn Mawr about a year ago," said George F. Barber, Philadelphia art needle manufacturer, when she obtained a leave of absence to study art in Philadelphia. She tried to cram four years of study into two years, suffered a nervous breakdown and melancholia. She had no love affairs and cared nothing for young men. She was devoted to her art studies."

'PRIDE OF DETROIT' TO START ON WORLD TOUR

Detroit, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—William S. Brock and Edward P. Schlee, flying the newly-christened Stinson-Detroiter monoplane "The Pride of Detroit," plan to take off from the Ford airport Friday for Old Orchard, Me., on the first leg of their proposed around-the-world flight.

One more day of tests and the aviators hope to start eastward, eventually landing at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where a special runway is being built for their takeoff to London, England.

METHODIST LAYMEN TO SEEK CONFERENCE VOTE

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The General Laymen's Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with headquarters here, issued today a proposed amendment to the constitution whereby laymen may be admitted as members to annual conferences.

The proposition to admit laymen was defeated prior to the last general conference by the vote of the ministers, but was unanimously endorsed by the laymen's organizations.

FILM ACTOR SAYS WIFE SHOT HIM; ASKS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Lieutenant Ligor Presniakoff, movie actor and formerly of the Czar's army, has withdrawn a complaint which charged his wife, Irene Preston Presniakoff, a Russian actress, with attempting to murder him, but —indicating that his move was not one of reconciliation—at once filed suit for divorce. Presniakoff said that his wife shot him in the arm in a domestic fray August 4.

RHODE ISLAND LEADER SAYS: 'BACK FULLER!'

Scituate, R. I., Aug. 18.—"All right thinking, conscientious citizens of the United States should at this time stand shoulder to shoulder with and back up the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," declared Lieutenant Governor Norman S. Case in his address at the Old Home Day celebration of the town.

He also decried the "mawkish sentiment," of this and other countries in keeping the Sacco-Vanzetti case alive for seven years.

"The case has gone through the courts of Massachusetts," said Lieutenant Governor Case. "Sacco and Vanzetti have been convicted and sentenced to die, according to the laws of that Commonwealth.

"It is a fine commentary on the mawkish sentiment, not only of this nation, but other countries as well that this sensational case has been kept alive seven years and is not yet finished.

"We ought, as good citizens, to give every bit of help and encouragement to Governor Fuller that is possible at this time."

The lieutenant governor also touched upon coming Rhode Island legislation and paid a tribute to the homes of the nation, saying that it is these that determine one's future character.

GRANDMOTHER GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE MAN

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A pint and a half of blood given him by the sixty-three-year-old grandmother for whom he had called in his delirium, today was bringing William Ortmann, twenty, back to recovery after he was almost crushed to death in a mixing machine of the Davis Baking Powder Plant here. His right arm was torn and one foot had to be amputated.

Mrs. Emily Coons, the grandmother, volunteered for the operation after two young men were rejected. "What's the matter with me?" she inquired.

Surgeons hesitated because of her age.

"Come on, let's go," the woman said.

MILLIONS GONE, ARMOUR $20,000,000 IN DEBT

Chicago, Aug. 18. (AP).—The Herald-Examiner today says that J. Ogden Armour, who once refused $130,000,000 for his interest in Armour & Company, died leaving liabilities that will not be covered by his assets, and stated that he owed at the time of his death in the neighborhood of $20,000,000, most of which was due Armour & Company.

The newspaper quoted a close but unnamed financial associate of Mr. Armour as saying the packer owed between $17,500,000 and $22,500,000 as a result of unsuccessful speculation in lands, grains and stocks with post-war deflation as a contributory cause.

The biggest single unincumbered asset of the Armour estate, according to the newspaper account, is the $3,000,000 farm in Lake Forest, consisting of 1,000 acres.

The exact riches of Mr. Armour will remain a secret until his last will and testament is removed from a vault in a Chicago bank and probated.

ASK FULLER FOR MENTAL TEST OF MADEIROS

Claiming Celestino Madeiros, convicted slayer of James Carpenter, the seventy-nine-year-old Wrentham bank cashier, on November 1, 1924, and who has been awaiting execution with Sacco and Vanzetti at the State Prison in Charlestown, was insane and below normal mentality at the time of the crime, his attorney, Joseph Linhares, appeared at the State House today asking a mental examination for the prisoner.

Linhares appeared at the office of Governor Fuller with a bundle of papers which he said included mental reports on Madeiros going as far back as 1917.

TURNED DOWN BY WARDEN.

Attorney Linhares asked to see Governor Fuller, but was referred by the Governor's secretary to Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading.

Linhares said he had asked Warden Hendry at the State Prison to have Madeiros examined by an alienist who had not been interested in the case. He said the warden told him he had no power to order a mental examination, and referred Linhares to the State House.

Among the reports he claimed to have was one from the Waverley School for Feeble Minded. Another was from the New Bedford School Department of Mental Diseases in which Linhares stated Madeiros was given a percentage of 71.

TEST MADE IN 1919.

Another made in August, 1919, by Dr. Horace Ripley of the Taunton State Hospital stated, according to Linhares, that Madeiros was feeble-minded and was not accountable for his failure to hold the numerous positions he had lost.

Attorney Linhares also claimed in looking up the Madeiros family mentality record he found insanity on his father's side.

At the State House it was said Governor Fuller some time ago anticipated such a move on the part of Madeiros' counsel, and had a check-up made of Madeiros' mentality, and was satisfied he was responsible for his acts.

Fuller Gets Plea of Portuguese President

Washington, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The charge d'affaires of the Portuguese Legation called at the State Department today to ask that the communication from the Portuguese President to President Coolidge, asking for clemency for Celestino Madeiros, under death sentence for murder, and one of the witnesses in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, be transmitted to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts.

He was assured by department officials that this had already been done.

The Portuguese President based his request upon the fact that the Portuguese law does not permit death sentences, and that therefore he feared a very bad impression might be caused in Portugal if Madeiros was executed.

The charge d'affaires pointed out that he had concluded several treaties with foreign countries excepting Portuguese subjects from the death penalty.

State Department officials said, however, that no such treaty existed with the United States, and that while all foreigners would be given the benefit of American judicial procedure to prove their innocence, they would also be subject to the full consequences of American law, if found guilty.

ECONOMY STAFF SPENDS DAY AT PEMBERTON

Pemberton rang with merriment of nearly 1,500 members and friends of the Economy Stores staff participating in the annual outing of the Economy Benefit Association.

The Mayflower and the Betty Alden of the Nantasket Steamboat Company brought the huge family from Boston in time for a buffet luncheon on the grounds of Pemberton Inn. This was to serve as an appetizer for a regular dinner held later in the dining halls of the Inn.

The afternoon's chief event was a baseball game between the "Econ's," representing the Economy staff, and St. Mark's team from South Boston. At the end of the fourth inning the game was called to make way for field events. At that time, after a close struggle, the score stood 6—4 in favor of St. Mark's.

Winners in the track events were: Mary English, 50-yard dash for girls; Loretta Kingston, backward race for girls; Mary English, potato race for girls; Norman Rabinovitz, 100-yard race for superintendents; Ellis Flashman, 50-yard dash for boys; Jack Berman, men's pig-a-back race; Joseph Cohn, fat men's race; Sidney Rabinovitz, executive's race.

Arrangements were in the hands of a committee comprising Thomas Lavine, chairman; George P. Kane, Charles W. Parker, Charles W. Day, Joseph H. Cohn, Thomas Wedge, Hal B. Brown, Norman Rabinovitz, Vincent James Volono, John J. Edwards, Frank Daigle and William Barter.

President Joseph Rabinovitz and Treasurer Sidney Rabinovitz, welcomed on the grounds the 900 employes and their families, representing 325 stores in Greater Boston.

KANSAS FIGHTS GREAT FLOOD

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 18.—After two weeks heavy rainfall, Kansas is battling one of the worst floods in the history of the State.

More than 1,000 homes in Salina were inundated as Dry Creek continued to rise, while the Smoky Hill River broke rapidly over its banks and flooded the east and southeast sections of the city. Several hundred homes are under water in the west and northwest sections of the city.

In Wichita an area of 75 blocks in the north portion of the city is under water.

Many homes in the north portion of the city were isolated while basements of others were flooded and some families forced to move. The Little Arkansas River, north of the city, was more than a mile wide early today.

MALDEN DRIVE ON UNLICENSED DOG OWNERS

Unlicensed dog owners in Malden are keeping City Clerk Leverett D. Holden busy at Malden City Hall as a result of a drive being conducted in that city to enforce proper registration of canines there. At roll call Malden police were given lists of persons on their beats who had unlicensed dogs.

The patrolmen were instructed to inform the owners of these dogs that unless they had them duly licensed within a specified period, court action would be taken against such persons.

FIRST M-G-M NEWSREEL ON HUB SCREENS

By LEO GAFFNEY.

"Go to the movies and see the world."

It's might well be the shibboleth of the newly inaugurated Metro Go wn Master newsreel which is showing for the first time today at Loew's State and Loew's Orpheum theatres.

For a you are comfortably ensconced in your chair, people and places in the remotest corners of the earth are ready set before you for your entertainment, enlightenment and education.

In every quarter of the globe the M-G-M camera man hitched up by the first big thrill newsreader serv ice is alert to catch the events of the day and show them with the eye of to-morrow.

COOLIDGE TURNS CRANK.

And what is going on in the world today, and where? And who's who and what's what? Let us look at the screen.

In a flash we are out in the Black Hills, sharing a bit of vacation with President Coolidge. The President himself turns the crank for the first scene.

Then we are on the ride through every clime somewhere about a mile above San Antonio, Texas. Slow fast we ride.

Back to earth again and over to Europe where a colorless horse race and a steeplechase offer some lively thrills.

Speaking of horses, in another scene we see the tiniest little trotter in the world, no larger than a cocker dog.

Then for a smart stunt, there is a cowgirl who would put Will Rogers to shame by the way he casually flings a sharp dagger straight at a pretty co-ed, nearly pinning the girl's pet dog to it by her head!

WEST POINT SCENE.

At West Point we watch the machine-like precision of the finest cadets in the world, parading for our especial benefit. Only for a short night than just before reeling the camera, they would have passed unnoticed into us.

We watch Helen Wills play tennis and then on Mr. Edison, as he celebrates a fiftieth anniversary of his having made use, and—presto

—here we are in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. We jump in a row boat with the during M-G-M man and shoot the river rapids for the first time ever in such a craft. The churning waters struggle to overturn us, to keep our nerve in like strong to a bucking bronco, it's a wild sport, but we all survive in a jiffy. And think of the fun we've had!

Where shall we go next week? Leave it to the M-G-M cameramen

JINKS OF SLIGO MAY BE OUSTED BY PARTY

Dublin, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Dame may lose some to John Jinks of Sligo unless he decides to refrain from casting a vote in Tuesday's session of the Dail Eireann, but has not, it may cost him his place in the National League party. Political circles believe his expulsion is likely to be voted at the next party meeting.

Jinks achieved prominence by disappearing from the Dail at the crucial moment when a vote was being taken on a non-confidence motion, passage of which would have meant the resignation of the Cosgrave government. He had agreed with the other National League deputies to vote solid against the government.

He announced that he walked out of the Dail.

HOLD 2 UNDER OLD LAW IN DROWNING OF GIRL

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—An appeal to the statute of Forest Ammen law has been unearthed here to provide basis for prosecution of Percy Nelson, wealthy Seattle clubman, and Amory F. Holmes of Nelson's yacht, on a charge of manslaughter for the death of Miss Vort Marie Payne, Tacoma teacher, drowned during a June party on the yacht early last July 26. It is held that the common law of Ln., and governing marine crimes as well had Nelson and Holmes responsible for the death of their guest. The two men are said to have stood by and made no effort to save the woman when she fell into Lake Union while leaving the yacht.

POSITIVELY THE BEST REMEDY

GARDNER'S KIDNEYAID

RELIEVES KIDNEY, LIVER and BLADDER TROUBLES

Not a patent medicine or secret preparation, but a mixture of MOTHER NATURE'S roots and herbs.

Its superiority and reason why GARDNER'S KIDNEYAID is better than liquid preparations as a remedy for these diseases is due to the fact that nearly all liquid medicines contain alcohol, which is considered by medical practitioners as injurious to these organs.

Make it fresh like tea every night.

SCHOOLS and COLLEGES

BURDETT COLLEGE is operated with the in tent to make the youth a useful citizen. Every cent has the personal friendly help of all the teachers. It isn't a school for easy honors and cheap social purposes. It breathes sincerity, nobility, health and competence. It doesn't keep you wasting your good time when you should be earning big wages. It shows you how to be useful and how to get there! I believe in Burdett. ELBERT HUBBARD.

Boston's Nationally Known Business College

Burdett students come from more than thirty states of the Union and from several foreign countries. The previous school ing of the student body ranges from high school to university. Their choice of Burdett College is influenced by: the steady growth of the institution during forty-eight years; the method of training and content of courses; and the recognized standing of the faculty as business educators. Burdett students learn through actual practice and make individual progress. Three generations of the same families are numbered among its students and gradu ates. Its alumni include statesmen and other public officials bank presidents, heads of corporations, and leaders in professional life. Burdett College has trained thousands of students. Their success has given the Institution a national reputation.

The Ideals and policy of Burdett College as stated in a paragraph on the immortal pen of its late philosopher of East Aurora.

Employment

Placing graduates is regarded by Burdett College as an important part of its work. Through reliable service rendered since 1879 to business men, and persistent efforts in behalf of graduates the Burdett Employment Service is unequalled. During the past ten years the demand for graduates has averaged about 3400 positions a year.

BURDETT AIMS TO TRAIN THE INDIVIDUAL

Burdett College is nearing the half century in teaching business and this Institution has organized princi ples and fundamentals essential to those who would attain any degree of success in business life.

It has learned also that the law of supply and demand which con stantly affects business in other phases, has a direct bearing on con ditions of employment.

Business is now entering a period when employers will choose prospective employes with discrimination. Competition demands that they de velop higher than ever before the science of management and effi ciency in their organizations. The need of special col training was never so great. The percentage of trained entrants has run so high that to start without training is a serious handicap.

From a study of the local field, Burdett College has found that it is now necessary for young people to seek other localities to get a start. Right here, at their front door step with third but business organiza tions constantly in need of men and women who have ability, training and ambition.

The work of Burdett College is to train young people to give a supe rior quality of services; then to bring them in contact with an opportunity where they will have a chance to apply their training.

One of the outstanding features of this training process is the method by which individual students are studied and directed, with a view of developing their abilities and nat ural tendencies to the fullest ex tent.

Whereas one student may be par ticularly well adapted for the ac counting phases of business, an other will have marked capacity for selling. The success of Burdett Col lege in fitting young people for busi ness life is in a large measure due to care in organizing the work.

SCHOOLS and COLLEGES

GRAVES SCHOOL READY FOR BUSY TERM

Perhaps one of the busiest schools of dressmaking in Boston is that of the Graves School of Costume Designing, located in the Blake building No. 59 Temple Place.

In a recent interview with Miss Graves, the principal, she stated that the popularity of the school was due to the thorough, practical instruction given.

The valued combination of the principal's 25 years of the widest kind of practical experience, together with the well-known B. T. Tavior System, which has been in use for 75 years, assures every student of one of the best and most complete courses possible.

In the Graves School every phase of dressmaking, costume designing, drafting and tailoring is gone into intensively. Moreover, because of the interesting way the instruction is planned, each student's attitude towards the course is enthusiastic.

The placement bureau of the school has placed practically every student of last year's class in a well paying position or in a business of her own.

Evening and day students receive the same practical instruction and personal supervision of the principal. The class is made up of those just beginning and the more advanced student.

59 RUSSIAN 'SPIES' CAUGHT IN BESSARABIA

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Dispatches from Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, report the arrest of 59 alleged Russian spies in various parts of Bessarabia. The arrested persons, it is added, are thought to be part of a widespread organization.

Soviet Russia has never recognized the clause in the Treaty of Paris of 1919 awarding the Province of Bessarabia to Rumania. Bessarabia borders on the Soviet republic of the Ukraine. Reports of fighting on the frontier last April were denied by the Rumanian foreign office

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The New York World disclosed today that a plane is being built at the plant of the Fairchild Airplane Corporation, for Captain E. L. Janney of Ottawa, who hopes to be the first to fly from Canada to London.

Secrecy has guarded the construction of Janney's craft in an effort to allow him to beat to the take-off Captain W. R. Maxwell and Tyrone B. Tully, who plan to fly from London, Ont., to London, England, and Phil Wood and "Duke" Schiller, who plan to fly from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor Castle.

DEMAND BAN ON ARBUCKLE IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Aug. 18.—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle will be barred from appearing on a Washington stage if local organizations have their way.

The drive is being made by the Parent-Teacher Association and other organizations which hope to prevent the appearance of R. Arbuckle in a local theatre Saturday. Women of Silver Spring, Md., where Arbuckle was to have taken part in a firemen's demonstration, started the campaign against the former film star and it soon spread to Washington.

The manager of the Washington show house said he was acting on instructions from New York when he booked Arbuckle for a week's engagement, beginning Saturday, and he will not change the schedule.

Mrs. William J. Lavarre, chairman of the motion picture committee of the District of Columbia, Congress of Parent-Teacher Association, said the organization she represents is unalterably opposed to the appearance of Arbuckle.

At a meeting of officers of the association behind the Silver Spring playground, it was declared that no invitation had been extended to Arbuckle.

A. AND P. MEN HAVE ANNUAL OUTING

Business conditions in New England during the present month are better than in any previous August in history, W. J. Davidson, president of the New England division of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Stores, declared at Lake Pearl at the annual outing of that organization.

More than 1,200 store managers, members of their families and friends attended the affair. Leaving the North Station on special trains the merrymakers arrived at the lake in time to spend the afternoon at sports.

Various races were staged and baseball games were played between different teams of the company. A buffet lunch was served and general dancing followed.

In his address President Davidson declared that New England has awakened to her unusual prosperity, that the A. and P. stores had witnessed a remarkable growth in this division during the past year, and that there are unlimited opportunities among the executive positions in his organization.

FRANCE AGAIN GIVES A.E.F. WELCOME

Paris, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Although the advance guard of the American legion host soon to descend upon Paris was lost in the crowd at the Saint Lazare station today, those most interested in the visitors found them without difficulty.

Many legion pilgrims were accompanied by their wives, who were French girls, and their children, and the welcoming crowd included many relatives, some of them seeing their grandchildren for the first time. There was much enthusiastic embracing.

"Ma Fille, Carmen' Petit Maurice!" shouted one French grandmother as she rushed with open arms toward her daughter, who came back with two children.

SCATTER OVER EUROPE.

This was only one of many reunions, for numerous veterans were greeted not only by relatives but by French friends they had not seen in eight years.

The contingent on the first official transport has been preceded by well 4,000 Legionnaires who came privately during the last few weeks. These are scattered over Europe, many in England, some in Germany or Italy, and others in Poland, Scandinavia, Spain and the Balkans some have penetrated to Turkey.

A number of today's arrivals were so excited at seeing France again that they said they were going to stay "forever."

OLTWIT RADICALS.

Legion officials met the boat, and the veterans were greeted by James F. Barton, secretary general of the Legion. The quay was decorated with French and American flags.

The Legionnaires arrived at Saint Lazare half an hour ahead of the announced time by prior arrangement, to forestall any possible Communist demonstration. There were no manifestations.

Croyden, Eng., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Colonel P. F. Minchin and Leslie Hamilton, British aviators, arrived here at 12:10 o'clock this afternoon from Ostend in the Fokker Jupiter monoplane, in which they are to attempt a transatlantic flight.

They planned to leave Croydon this afternoon for Bristol, where the engine will be given its final tuning before proceeding to Dublin the starting point of the transatlantic attempt.

They hope to get away within the next seven days, with Ottawa, Canada as their goal.

GERMAN SOLONS ROW OVER SACCO; ONE KNOCKED OUT

Hindenburg, Upper Silesia, Germany, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—An uproar in the municipal council here over a Communist proposal to cable President Coolidge a protest in the Sacco-Vanzetti case ended in a fist fight, in which a Nationalist member was knocked out by a Communist. The latter refused to obey the chairman's order to leave the council room, and the session was suspended.

SEARLES RICHES SHRINK

Chaplin Scorns Wife's Ma

$50,000,000 FORTUNE IS CUT

Litigation Reduces Estate of Searles to $15,000,000 Which Walker Scatters

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The remnant millions of the once vast Mark Hopkins estate have been dispersed at last.

Cut into by a long history of litigation, the fortune that was once estimated at more than $50,000,000 has dwindled to a reported $15,000,000 for distribution among relatives and friends of Arthur T. Walker, secretary to Edward F. Searles, from whom he inherited the bulk of the estate.

Walker's will divides the bulk of the estate among four sisters, two brothers and a niece, and makes small bequests to devoted friends and employes of himself and Searles.

Thus the millions wrested by the railroad pioneer from the early West pass, much in the same fashion as did most of the equally famous Fair fortune, to persons of moderate means, who a few years before never had reason even to dream of such wealth, and who were unrelated and unacquainted with the founder of the fortune.

Walker, once a $12-a-week school teacher, who later became Searles' secretary, died August 7, only a few months after he had successfully defended his inheritance from the attempt of Angelo Milton Elkins, former elevator operator, protege of Searles, to break the Searles will.

Heir to Millions Goes Right on Chopping Meat

Detroit, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—William Walker today planned to resume his accustomed places behind a meat block in a Royal Oak butcher shop where he is employed, despite the fact he has been notified that under the will of his brother, Arthur T. Walker, heir to the fortune of Edward F. Searles, Methuen, Mass., recluse, he will receive a large portion of the millions in the estate.

Walker was dumfounded when informed of the terms of the will. Interviewed last night at his home a simple one-story bungalow in Royal Oak, Detroit suburb, Walker said he would continue at his present work "until I have time to think." "I don't know what I'll do with the money," he said. "I never thought of what I'd do with so much money. I never dreamed of being rich. It takes time to think this thing out."

The house in which Mr. Walker lives with his wife, Maude L., and his 21-year-old daughter, Ottobell, and 18-year-old son, Arthur Bruce, was built partly by the work of his own hands.

VISITS LITA AND THEIR CHILDREN

Comedian Courteous Despite Estrangement and Romps In Home With Kiddies

Bollywood, Calif., Aug. 18.—Though Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, romped with his children on the floor in his mansion, and though his greeting to his estranged wife, Lita Gray Chaplin, was "courteous and unrestrained," according to his attorney, the man with the shoes and trick moustache did not speak to his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Spicer, whom he so bitterly attacked in his cross-suit for divorce.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaplin exchanged greetings and hoped each other were feeling well. Chaplin did not witness his wife's mother, Mrs. Lillian Spicer, whom he had assailed in as divorce cross-bill.

Chaplin like each knew his father and climbed into his arms. The younger boy was frightened.

PLAYS WITH BABIES.

Chaplin got down on the floor and romped with the youngsters. He stayed at the big yellow mansion—all it's gone until next Monday's divorce trial settles its ultimate possession—for half an hour, and when he left Mrs. Chaplin went to the door with her. Lita Gray Chaplin told friend Henry Bergson and told Chaplin that her front door was open to him at any time he cared to see the babies.

The last time Chaplin saw the children was December 15, 1926, shortly after his wife walked out of the yellow mansion and moved to her grandparents' home.

PROBABLE TERMS.

The demonstration of cordiality between Charlie and his wife made it hard for attorneys on both sides today to deny the persistent report that a new property settlement is under way. The arrangement will call for Lita to replace her present divorce complaint with a mild and routine set of charges before the case is called at 10 o'clock Monday.

In return Lita is expected to settle a portion of Chaplin's $10,000,000 trust funds of $100,000 for herself in cash, property and promises to pay.

Lita's lawyers contented themselves with the statement that "there is nothing new to give out."

MOVE TO PLUG RUM FLOW

Washington, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—The first move in a general campaign to plug the heavy flow of liquor from Canada into the United States was taken today when Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman established a new prohibition district comprising the State of Michigan.

Heretofore, Michigan and Ohio constituted the twelfth prohibition district. The Michigan district will be number 25.

Headquarters of the new district was established in Detroit, in charge of Thomas E. Stone, now deputy administrator in Cleveland.

1 DEAD AS BOLT HITS HOSPITAL

Defuniak Springs, Fla., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—One person was killed and another was believed burned fatally when the Ensor Hospital, a private sanitarium in Crestview, near here, was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire today.

John Jernigan was burned to death when he re-entered the burning hospital to get a pair of shoes. Dr. O. O. Ensor, hospital head, was believed burned fatally in his efforts to rescue Jernigan. Forty patients were rescued safely from the building before it burned to the ground.

Story of a Girl Who Did Just What She Chose and Then Took Flight

Emily Duane, an "ultra modern," is about to marry Rodney Sayre, conservative, and scion of an old New England family. Emily, parentless, is extremely wealthy, charming, high-spirited and impulsive.

Novelty allures her and Hindu mysticism is her latest fad. In her enthusiasm she places a clause in her will bequeathing a large sum to Swami Lal Singh, her teacher.

Two days before the wedding Emily decides to have a rehearsal of the ceremony. Burton Lamb, best-man-to-be; Betty Bailey and Nell Harding, bridesmaids; Polly Pennington, matron of honor, and her husband, Jim; Pete Gibby, Betty Bailey's beau; Emily, Rodney and Emily's Aunt Judy are talking things over, and among the subject under discussion are the Reverend Mr. Garner, who is to officiate; "Spinks," an undertaker, whom Emily has designated as "wedding director," and Emily's bequest to the Hindu.

Lamb starts to berate Emily for making the bequest. She explains that the will is automatically cancelled when she becomes Rodney's wife.

The Swami overhears, and he is incensed, but says nothing.

Emily then gets a phone message that Mrs. Kitty Laurence, a dear friend, has become a mother, and she impulsively drops everything to go to the hospital and kiss the new-born "for luck." She instructs Rodney to evade telling the others where she is.

Meanwhile Abel Collins, an old family friend of the Duanes, has joined the party.

"Spinks" is ready to start rehearsal and everyone is looking for Emily. Rodney follows instructions, tries to evade the issue, but finally tells that Emily has gone to the hospital.

It develops that Polly Pennington has left with Emily, though neither had told anyone of their plans. The wedding rehearsal continues without the bride or matron of honor, and without the groom, too, for Sayre refuses to budge until Emily returns.

Jim Pennington waits for his wife, but gets nervous after a while and phones the hospital.

Neither Emily or Polly have been there—

"Where's Emily?" ask Sayre—

CHAPTER X.

"I HAVEN'T had enough, Mr Spinks," Nell Harding told him. "I wish you'd instruct me further in your fascinating philosophy. Come out on the veranda with me and give me a little lesson."

The two went off, and Gibby asked Aunt Judy:

"What do you know of that scamp?"

"Oh, my!" said Aunt Judy shocked at the words. "I don't know much, to be sure, but you mustn't speak like that of the dear lad's benefactor!"

"He's a fraud and a fake, I tell you!" Pete snorted. "What's he done for you?"

"Why, I don't know." Aunt J...

AUCTION BRIDGE

By WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

The World's Greatest Authority

HAND NO. 144

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. Declarer plans to play for the establishment of Dummy's diamonds to obtain the discard of a spade rather than have Dummy ruff two losing Spades. Should this ruffing be attempted, Declarer would be embarrassed in a later effort to exhaust trumps, especially if those outstanding were found to be unfavorably distributed.

Trick 3. North ducks, finessing against the Jack.

Trick 6. East trumps to prevent a discard by declarer.

Trick 8. A diamond trick is established in Dummy upon which Declarer's losing Spade is subsequently discarded.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

IMMIGRATION CHARGE FOUND BASELESS

"Pure imagination" was the chief basis of ill treatment charges made in a magazine article by Miss Agnes Miller, an Englishwoman, in connection with her passing through Ellis Island, Commissioner-General of Immigration Hull said today in a letter to Mrs. Frederic P. Bar-ley of Boston.

In the letter to Mrs. Barley, who is director of the political department of the Women's Club in the Hub, Commissioner Hull declared R. F. Wixon, chief supervisor, had investigated the charge thoroughly and had found them without ground.

Supervisor Wixon's report stated: "Perhaps the most absurd statement in the reference to Ted Robinson's bond not having been acceptable because he was an Englishman. The nationality and race of a person has nothing to do with qualifications for supplying bond in immigration cases. No doubt the delay in Miss Miller's discharge from the island was occasioned by the time required for persons interested in her to supply a bond.

"Sometimes some, not aware that practically every American consulate in Europe has a waiting list which will exhaust quotas for years, in all innocence apply for quota visas. When they learn the true situation they apply for non-immigration visas, but not as innocently.

"Confronted with such a situation, it is not to be wondered that our office should entertain suspicion concerning applicant's intention, when he has knowledge that the person originally attempted to come as an immigrant, but later decided a non-immigrant visa as a visitor."

MAN SWIMMING FROM ST. LOUIS TO NEW ORLEANS

Wilson, Ark., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Kurt Odenhaimer, attempting to swim the Mississippi from St. Louis to New Orleans, left here at 8 a. m. and expected to reach Memphis about 8 p. m.

FLYING DANCE ORCHESTRA IN PLANE CRASH

Gardner, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—After waiting over seven hours for Harry McDonald's flying orchestra to appear at his dance hall, Manager J. G. Edwards learned that one plane had landed at Weymouth, Ct., over 100 miles out of the way, and the other at Springfield.

According to word received, the planes flew over Gardner about 11:43 a. m., but did not recognize the field and continued on.

One of the planes was wrecked upon landing in Waterbury.

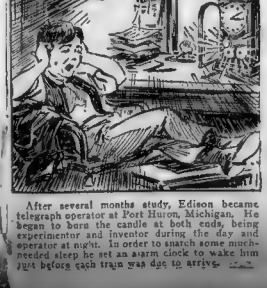
Dr. Charles F. Peckham Dies

Providence, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles F. Peckham, 55, died at his summer home at Warwick Neck. A widow and one daughter survive. At the close of the Spanish-American War, in which he served with the naval reserves, Dr. Peckham was appointed surgeon-general of the State.

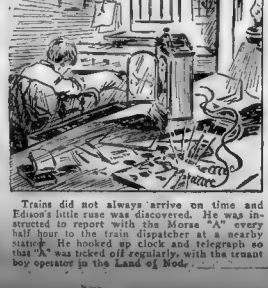
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized by Mr. Edison.)

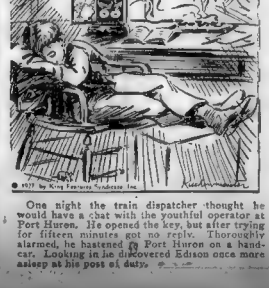
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



After several months study, Edison became telegraph operator at Port Huron, Michigan. He began to burn the candle at both ends, being experimentor and inventor during the day and operator at night. In order to snatch some much-needed sleep he set an alarm clock to wake him just before each train was due to arrive.



Trains did not always arrive on time and Edison's little ruse was discovered. He was instructed to report with the Morse "A" every half hour to the train dispatcher at a nearby station. He hooked up clock and telegraph so that "A" was ticked off regularly, with the truant boy operator in the Land of Nod.



One night the train dispatcher thought he would have a chat with the youthful operator at Port Huron. He opened the key, but after trying for fifteen minutes got no reply. Thoroughly alarmed, he hastened to Port Huron on a handcar. Looking in he discovered Edison once more asleep at his post of duty.

Completely bewildered, the dispatcher rushed into the office. As it was near the half hour, and time for "A" to be ticked off, he discovered how ingeniously he had been fooled. Arousing the resourceful operator with a vigorous shake he sent him on his way looking for another job.

FITTON COUNCIL OUTING SUNDAY

East Bostonians in general and particularly the members of Fitton Council No. 84, Knights of Columbus, are evidencing great interest in the field day and old fashioned picnic on Sunday at Fort Warren, Georges Island, Boston harbor.

Small Beer Fatal; It's Interesting to Walker

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Mayor Walker's straw hat is being given particular attention in London.

Mayor Walker showed special interest in a tombstone near the entrance to Winchester Cathedral, on which was inscribed:

"In memory of Thomas Thetcher, a grenadier in the Ninth Regiment of Hants, who contracted a violent fever by drinking small beer on a hot day and died, aged 26, May 12, 1764."

SEEK MAN LOST IN HUGE CAVE

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The gloomy, subterranean avenues of Nick-a-Jack Cave at Shield Mound Tenn., held in mysterious silence today the fate of L. S. Ashley, geologist, who entered the cavern Monday on an exploring trip.

Ashley declared he would return Tuesday night at the latest. Since then nothing has been heard of him, and yesterday a party of friends organized to search for him. They traced him for a distance of five miles into the cave, following chalk marks which he had left on the walls.

Where the chalk marks ended footprints were found in the moist earth and other marks which indicated that the explorer had stumbled and fallen. Nearby was a sharp declivity which ended at the bank of an underground stream. The searchers feared that Ashley had fallen into this stream and that his body was carried away into unexplored recesses. Further search was to be carried out today.

CADILLAC WINS HONORS ABROAD

At an international automobile contest for efficiency and beauty of appearance held recently in Berlin, Germany, with sixty-two entries from many countries, first prize was awarded to a Cadillac special sport phaeton and second prize to the La Salle.

In a similar contest held in Vienna in a field of one hundred contestants, second prize also went to the Cadillac.

"The honors were doubly valuable because they were awarded to American cars in rivalry with European cars in contests held in European cities," said Albion Danforth, general manager of the Cadillac Company of Boston.

"The special Cadillac sport phaeton which won first place was the one which proved the sensation of the last New York automobile salon and the New York national show. It has also captivated critics of design in London, Paris and other cities of Europe and South America.

"It was designed by Harley Earl, formerly body designer and consultant of the Cadillac Motor Car Company. Earl, who spent two years in the study of body design in the United States and in Europe in preparation for the task, is also responsible for the design

SCIENCE HELPS BUILD WHIPPET

"Scientific construction of different parts of an automobile chassis contributes to its long life, road stability, riding comfort and safety. Advanced engineering in the automotive industry has brought the center of gravity close to the ground, thus adding immeasurably to stability and riding comfort," said Herbert Pitch, general manager for New England.

"The first American automobile manufacturer to embrace this low swung type of construction as standard for all models was Willys-Overland, Inc., of Toledo, Ohio, builders of Whippet, Whippet Six, "70" Willys Knight and Willys-Knight Great Six cars.

"Willys-Overland engineers point out that many advanced engineering features have been embraced in the construction of the Whippet Six, which made its appearance about eight months ago.

"The Whippet Six frame is of pressed steel and is reinforced by four sturdy cross-members exclusive of the two striking cross-bars used in the motor suspension. The wheelbase is 109½ inches. This type of construction carries out in full the low centre of gravity design, a feature of all Willys-Overland products."

FUEL ECONOMY IN DODGE CAR

One of the most important problems of the automotive engineer today is to design motors which will permit greater gasoline economy. Experiments along this line are constantly being made and remarkable successes are being attained.

The latest claim of unusual economy is made by Dodge Brothers for their new four cylinder cars, which are being advertised as capable of going approximately 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline at a speed of 25 miles per hour. Sales Manager C. P. Mussey of the Henshaw Motor Company states that since the new cars were introduced practically everyone who has examined them has commented upon this engineering feat.

"Several features in the car's design and construction are responsible for this exceptional fuel economy," Mr. Mussey states. "One of the most important is the lighter weight of the cars. Naturally with less weight for the engine to move a considerable saving in gasoline is accomplished.

"Another contribution to economy is made by the gear ratio, which is higher than on former Dodge Brothers cars. This means that the engine makes fewer revolutions in driving the car a mile than were formerly required, thereby bringing about another saving.

"Improvements in carburetion, better manifolding, a new cylinder head and faster entry of the gas into the combustion chamber, announced earlier in the Summer as important characteristics of this Dodge Brothers motor, also result in the achievement of operating economy."

CHEVROLET DEALERS PLAN RECORD OUTING

Chevrolet dealers from all over Greater Boston will gather at Nantasket next Thursday as guests of the Chevrolet Dealers' Association, for what will be the largest automobile dealers' and employes' outing ever held in New England.

Over 1,200 reservations have been made and guests will include H. L. Norton, regional sales manager, and other executives from the regional offices, Chevrolet Motor Company, New York, N. J. Walsh, Boston zone sales manager, Chevrolet Motor Company, and the entire staff and the families of the Chevrolet Motor Company, Boston. Officials of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation will also be present.

Oldest Locomotive In America to Run at Centenary

Washington, Aug. 18.—John Bull, oldest complete locomotive in America, will soon feel the steam in his lungs again after an unbroken rest of 36 years, the Smithsonian Institute announces.

Made in England, the engine did continuous service on the Camden & Amboy Railroad from 1831 to 1865. In 1885 John Bull was given to the Smithsonian by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Seven years later it ran from Washington to the World's Fair in Chicago.

Now John Bull is getting ready to do his stuff on a five-mile track at the Baltimore & Ohio Centenary celebration at Halethorpe, Md., September 24 to October 8.

COTTON CORD BEST IN TIRES

"The best of a tire cord is its weaving quality and ability to stand constant flexing. For this use, cotton cord reigns supreme, after comparative tests against all other textile materials," says T. E. Hogan, of T. E. Hogan, Inc., local Fisk Tire dealer. "Cotton is used in the construction of balloon cord tires to the exclusion of all other materials.

"The popularity of the balloon tire is due to the special construction which allows the tire to carry a lower air pressure.

"The cords must possess the greatest resistance to the constant weaving and flexing that come from inequalities in the road, which will soon break down any but the toughest, most flexible material, in fact, any cord except a cotton cord."

Dempsey in Chicago Million Dollar Gates May Become History

Boston Kicks in For Worth While Stuff Big Fight Crowds

By Nick Flatley

TITLE ROW TO MAKE OR BREAK SPORT

THE arrival of William Harrison Dempsey in Chicago calls attention to the fact that the next quarrel of the ages is only a month away. The steamup, as it is called, has begun. It takes plenty of advertising to put over a $2,000,000 amusement proposition, and Tex Rickard is an artist at getting the ballyhoo rolling.

There is a chance that this next fight will be the last of the million dollar houses for quite a long time. There have been too many sour bouts lately. This is an age of cynics and knockers, and the boys have been panning boxing merrily.

Nick Flatley

The anvil chorus has attracted the serious attention of the big reform element. The boys who deplore can see no way of getting in themselves on the large profits, so they will proceed to beat down the game, if possible. There are always a few really sincere objectors to anything, who have enough money to stage campaigns for the professional reformers.

This comment you hear about a movement to start national legislation that will prevent prize fighting isn't all bunk. The works are in. Prohibition, if you recall, as many do so sadly, stepped off in exactly the same fashion. Before we knew what it was all about, we were scribbling bootleggers' addresses in our note books.

The same thing can happen to the fight game, if the next big one has any suggestion of orange. The roar about the Dempsey-Sharkey foul provided an opening. The Delaney-Paolino joke made things perfect for the reformers. The new York Boxing Commission, by refusing to disqualify the Basque, as its own law commands, practically admits that one was in the bag.

One can hear all sorts of yarns about the next title collision. Dempsey is supposed to win this one, and then the boys will take the act out to the coast or back to New York. And so on and so on.

Let Dempsey and Tunney furnish anything that looks like a frame up, and the howl will come pretty close to chasing Tex Rickard into some other business. The fans are gluttons for punishment. They can take it, and like it for an indefinite period.

But they get too much once in a while. Then it takes years of rebuilding to bring them back.

At that, a return to the days of fights on river barges and battles in hermetically sealed halls, with the coppers fixed, forcibly or otherwise, might bring a bit of fighting back. Too much business, especially monkey business, will ruin any sport eventually.

DONIE BUSH WOULD SEEM TO HAVE THE FIGHTING HEART, EVEN IF HIS PITTSBURGH BALL CLUB HASN'T. HEART IS ONE OF THE THINGS YOU CAN'T GIVE TO THOSE "AS HASN'T GOT."

He was an ancient referee,
Who knew the mob mob howl;
And as he breathed his final breath,
He paused to murmur, Foul.

BOSTON STILL TURNS OUT FOR REAL STUFF

BOSTON is still the best sport spot of them all, if the boys are served what they're looking for. The success of the Argonne fight shows at Braves Field shows that.

For several years the boxing game in this sector has been sagging. The promoters had the idea that a big card was necessary to bring the shekels through the turnstiles. They signed up top liners, paid them exorbitantly.

They had to raise prices to get the advertised scrappers, and they had to match them with palookas to make both ends meet. As a result, the game tired of setups. The boys want fights, not exhibitions. A champion, who isn't proving it in the ring, isn't exactly the most exciting bird in the world.

The Argonne club went ahead on an idea that had been tried here successfully, and that was dropped when the promoters had wild dreams of quick millions. Fight fans are perennial. They don't bloom quickly and fade. Give them action and they'll be present.

This is being evidenced with increasing force each week at the Wigwam. Before you know it, that large orchard will be filling up. The unknown fighters fight. They want to get reputations. Once they get em, they become scientists and business men.

Just as long as the Argonne outfit keeps furnishing fireworks, just so long will it clean up. Other clubs will follow suit, and profit also.

HEAVIES TOP ELKS' CARD

Preparations for the next amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of Somerville Lodge, B. P. O. Elks are nearing completion, and all indications point to a successful tournament. The scene of action is Tufts Oval, Monday evening.

In the 118-pound class, Willie Barry of Brockton, Tom Silleso and Tommy Graham and Freddie O'Connor are entered in the 126-pound class. Frank Erne, Ivy Diamond and Harry Devine of Worcester will be seen in action while in the 145 pound class the popular Jackie O'Carra and Rudy Bauer, together with Tony Costa, will perform.

However, topping them all, is the heavyweight class, with eight big boys already entered; this assures the fans plenty of action.

Entries and reservations should be made with Dick Merrick, Elks' House, No. 23 Central street, Somerville, Mass.

Lafayette Sets Up New World's Record

Monroe, Wis., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Lafayette, a bay gelding owned by W. W. Marvin, Lafayette, Ind., set a new world record for two-year-old geldings on a half mile track here yesterday when he paced the distance in 2:12, one-half second better than the old record.

KAER, TROJAN GRID STAR, PLANS TO PLAY AS 'PRO'

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—Morton Kaer, the former U. S. C. gridiron hero and All-American back, declared that he plans to play professional football this Fall.

Although he has offers from Pyle and Grange, Brick Muller's Los Angeles eleven and the Philadelphia Panthers, Kaer said he has not yet decided with which outfit he will sign.

Kaer admitted that Pyle was particularly anxious to secure his services and said that "Cash and Carry" had expressed his willingness to better any offer that the Red Bluff boy may receive from rival teams.

Mello Can't Fight Setup at Lynn

The A' Mello-Johnny Fagen bout scheduled to be held at Georgia Electric Field, Lynn, Monday night was called off today when the Boxing Commission ruled that Fage was not a fit opponent for the l well boxer.

Promoter Lou Penny stated that he will attempt to secure another opponent for Mello, but that if he is not successful will put on a new main bout.

FUGAZY COMPLETES CARD FOR EBBETS FIELD

New York, Aug. 18—Promoter Humbert Fugazy has completed a card of bouts for Ebbets Field Wednesday night. The Signor will trot out Ed Terris against Phil McGraw in the main event of ten rounders. Jimmy Goodrich and Eddie Kid Wagner are down for a semi-windup.

In the opening ten rounder, Pancho Dencio takes on Al "Blue" Goldberg. Roberto Rolgil meets Pietro Corri in a six-rounder, while in the opening four I Jay Terris, brother of Ed, goes against Romeo Vaughan.

Big Wind in Ireland Scatters Title Golfers

Portmarnock, Ireland, Aug. 18 (A. P.)—Torrential rain storms with high winds developed almost unprecedented playing conditions for the final day of the Irish open golf championship.

The first casualty came early in the day when the huge luncheon tent was torn from its moorings, ripped into ribbons and swept into the sea. A little later the press tent followed its big brother.

All sorts of devices were adopted by the players to protect themselves from the elements, but they could do nothing to ward off high scores, eighties and nineties appearing on the early cards. The veteran J. H. Taylor came in with an 83 to make his score 237, while Ted Ray with 88 ran up a count at the moment of 240.

Taylor declared that the playing conditions were worse than those encountered in the historic open championship of 1913. Ray said that he had never played in such weather and Larry Nehoitz, the American pro, went himself better by declaring that he had never even heard of such weather.

COMMITTEE PICKS U. S. NET TEAM

Tilden, Johnston, Williams and Hunter Chosen, Lott and Doeg Substitutes

New York, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.).—The makeup of the American team which will compete in the Davis Cup matches in Philadelphia, September 8-10, was announced this afternoon by the Davis Cup Selection Committee as follows:

William T. Tilden, Philadelphia, William Johnston, San Francisco, R Norris Williams, Philadelphia, and Francis T. Hunter, New York.

Two alternates were named: John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., and Jesse M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago.

The makeup of the team is the same as last year with the exception of Hunter, who fills the vacancy caused by Vincent Richards, who turned pro.

The selection committee was made up of Chairman Charles S. Garland, Boston, captain of the team; Lawrence Ward, Dean Mathey, Harold H. Hackett and Carl H. Pforzheimer, Jr. Samuel S. Myrick, James W. Mercein and Herbert S. Prentice served as executive members.

The alternate players, Doeg and Lott, will have a chance to make the team. Illness or accident to either Tilden, Johnston, Williams or Hunter up to ten days before the scheduled date of the match, would result in the selection of either or both as members of the team.

Not until 24 hours before the match will the make-up of the doubles and singles team be announced, and such announcement will come from the non-playing captain, Garland.

It is expected that the squad of six men will be assembled at the tens of the matches immediately after the National doubles championships in Boston and that it will begin active practice either September 4 or 5. Competent trainers and masseurs will be assigned to the task of keeping the team members fit.

The naming of Johnston, though expected after Little Bill announced that his hat was in the ring, constituted a departure from convention, in that no player within recent years has been named without intensive tournament play under the eye of the committee. It is understood that Johnston will not arrive on the scene until a week before the actual matches.

The challenge round, to be contested on September 8, 9 and 10 at the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, probably will find either France or Japan as the contending team with the form generally favored Japan at present is playing the final round of the American zone against Canada in Montreal and the survivor will meet the French in Boston in the interzone final round next week.

HOLY CROSS STARTS AUG. 30

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 18.—On Tuesday, August 30, Holy Cross football squad will hold its first workout in preparation for a strenuous season. Head Coach O'Donnell has ordered all of last season's available varsity men, together with a dozen of last Fall's freshman team players, to report on Sept. 6.

Although there will be about fourteen of last season's varsity squad missing, this Spring's workouts made the Purple football mentor optimistic over prospects. The only real worry for the early part of the season will be the grooming of a quarterback versatile enough to replace Billy Wise, who has played a star game for the last two years.

Wise was a good punter, fast, a sure tackler and clever in sending off his long forward passes. The freshman team will lend up some very promising men, especially for backfield service.

The schedule has just one chance from last season's. Marquette replacing Western Maryland. The Purple will go West in a Fall and Marquette will return the compliment the following season. Five of the nine games will be played at home.

The schedule:

Oct. 1, St. John's College, at Worcester; 8, Dayton, at Worcester; 15, Harvard, at Cambridge; 22, Catholic U., at Worcester; 29, Exeter, at Worcester.

Nov. 5, Fordham at New York; 12, Marquette at Milwaukee; 19, Boston U., at Worcester; 26, Boston College, at Boston.

Suggests Use of White Ball in Football

Anxious to speed up football and at the same time make the spectacle more easily followed by the crowds that turn out to witness the big gridiron contests of the year, Dean H Watkeys of Syracuse, one of the foremost football referees of the country, has come out with the suggestion that a whitened football be used instead of the brown leather one now in use.

Watkeys has made his suggestion officially to members of the rules committee and to representatives of football manufacturing concerns urging that the idea be given a trial.

RIVAL PRO FOOTBALL LEAGUES SIGN PEACE

New York, Aug. 18.—The war between the National and American professional football leagues that cost over half a million dollars last season has been definitely ended.

The announcement was made by Joe Carr, president of the National Football League.

CARDS SURE THEY WILL REPEAT

Rain Halts Third Game of Series, Twin Bill Tomorrow

The third game of the Braves-Cardinals series was called off this afternoon because of rain.

As this is the last visit of the world's champions here this season there will be a doubleheader at the Wigwam tomorrow.

Bob O'Farrell and his St. Louis Cardinals believe they are going to repeat in the National league race. They prove that every game they play. They howl and scrap about decisions. They keep pretty well on their toes, and they try to force the issue at all times.

They have bulldozed the Braves out of two games here in the present series. The champs were extremely lucky to win that opening game, and they picked off the second by jumping in when the lone Boston error gave them a chance.

The St. Louis Club was not a peppery aggregation to start the campaign. The loss of Hornsby as manager had wrecked the club's equilibrium. But O'Farrell has his team hustling now, and he has a real chance to slide in.

These Cardinals are six games back of the Cubs, and only a single game away from second place, even the slightest slump hits the Chicago team in the next few weeks the race will be tucked up like a Saturday's traffic in the market district.

MANAGER O'Farrell is optimistic even though his pitchers apart from Haines and Alexander haven't been doing well. He knows from experience that real hustle means almost as much as pitching, when the drive is on, and he is sure he has the right brand of drive going now.

The season continues to play the world's finest variety of in and out baseball. They look like champions for a few innings, and then they do a scene from the married and single men's annual contest at the chowder party.

They did almost wreck the entire West a year ago, and still have hopes of repeating, although the best they can get from the Cards series is an even break. As Kent Greenfield says, the Cubs are not ready to toss the two remaining games, the boys are entitled to some such dream.

Manager Bancy is ready to get back into the game again, and will do it shortly, if fortune doesn't turn. He's too good a shortstop to be parking on the sidelines, if at all able to play.

BANNY stuck Earl Clark into the second Card game, but the kid from Richmond didn't have any real chance to show his stuff. Jess Haines was pitching one of those six hit games and Earl drew one of the six though it was luck.

He's a fast youngster and looks like a real player going after ground balls in the garden. He didn't have a fly hit his way, at all, but showed a lot of speed going down to first, and pickled one ball solidly, though it went right at Frisch. Earl wasn't as nervous as most rookies are, and will be kept in the game until a real siteup can be gathered.

This gives Ed Brown a vacation but he will be in the lineup somewhere daily, as he has but six more games to go to break the National League endurance record, held by Fred Luderus of the old Phils. Phil Brownie has played in 827 in a row, and is fitted physically, to waltz through as many more.

Reilly and His Stable Suspended

New York, Aug. 18 (A P.)—Pete Reilly, manager of Jack Delaney and his entire stable of boxers, were suspended indefinitely today by the New York State Boxing Commission when Reilly failed to appear for explanation of Delaney's failure to go through with a match at the Coney Island Stadium, entered into early this year.

Nelson at Dexter

New York, Aug. 18.—Bobby Nelson, clever colored feather, who stopped Soldier Buckley in three rounds the other night, will show at Dexter Park in two weeks. Pal Silvers will likely be his opponent.

Bouts Last Night

At New York—Tony Canzoneri (Brooklyn Vanderbilt) knocked out Pete Sarmiento, Filipino, in the first round. Joe Dundee (Brooklyn) outpointed Jack Bernstein (Boston). 10 rounds; Sammy Dorfman, New York lightweight, fought a 10-round draw with Eddie Anderson of Wyoming; Archie Cross of Scranton, Pa., outpointed Johnny Roberts of New York, 10.

At West New York, N. J.—Battling Mangano (New York) was awarded the decision over Willie Feldman of New York (10); Frankie Adams of New York won from Rickey Romano of Harrison, N. J. (10).

SOMERVILLE HAS ANOTHER BALL STAR

Somerville's latest entrant in big league baseball has started off with a bang.

Haskell Billings, a big right hander from the suburb that soon promises to have a complete team in the majors, made his big time debut with the Tigers yesterday by holding the Red Sox to four hits and winning 6 to 2

Billings was a team-mate of Danny MacFayden and Frank Hogan at Somerville High in 1924-25-26 and was an all-scholastic choice at that post too.

After being graduated, he entered Brown and it was there that he first attracted notice as a hurler. He surprised the entire sporting world this past Spring by handing Holy Cross its first defeat of the season and immediately the big league scouts started on his trail

Billings weighs 185 pounds and is nearly six feet tall. Like MacFayden he wears spectacles and decided this handicap can certainly pitch.

It is rumored that there is still one ball player in somerville who has not signed with the big league club and a new round in the bidding to accommodate the scouts.

JONES HAS LITTLE HOPE OF VICTORY

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

New York, Aug 18.—Bobby Jones arriving in Minneapolis for the national amateur golf championship next week, announced that he didn't expect to win. That almost made two of us. I may almost because I mean not quite.

Jones must be expected to win any tournament until he loses it. The writer, therefore, will content himself with saying that, when and if Jones loses this tournament, he, this writer, will by surprised only in moderation, which is neither here nor there here.

STAND OUT CANDIDATES.

Bobby Jones and George Von Elm (east and present champions respectively), naturally are the stand-out candidates in the field of 170. This is true of Jones because he is a stand-out anywhere. It is true of Von Elm because he is the only one to beat Jones since 1923 and, conversely, Jones is the only man to gain a decision over him during the game period

Von Elm has been a finalist in two of the three years and a semi-finalist on the other occasion. And he is the tenacious type that, once in, won't go out without some high pressure salesmanship by the party immediately concerned

This pair, by the way, constitutes all that is left of the so-called old guard as a first class threat against a national title. Guimet is a great fellow and a fine golfer, but he hasn't won a national championship since 1914. The parade seems to have gone on by him. That, of a certainty, applies to Old Bill Fownes and in a slightly smaller measure to Chick Evans. The latter won last in 1920. Barring accidents, he is through, although Minnekahda was the course on which he won the belt with that 286 record of his in the national open of 1916

ONE-YEAR CHAMPIONS.

Jesse Guilford won six years ago and, seeming, called it a career. He hasn't been close enough since. Bob Gardner reached the finals the same year and that appears to have ended his story. Max Marston and Davison Herron probably were one year champions

Jones and Von Elm can look to the rising generation if they want opposition, which they don't. There may be a kick left in Guimet, Evans or Guilford or Gardner and golf is a funny game, but the rest of them may be champion within ten days

Gothard, however, I would prefer to string along with a man that is going somewhere than the man who has been there. He's better over par back. Harrison Johnston, played over the home course, would seem to be an outside bet. So, better than he is Watts Gunn, now at the height of his game. Ron Stein, from the far West, may be hot for this one and, in a slightly less measure, Dr. O. F. Willing, from the same locality.

That St. Louis trio, Clarence Wolff, Jimmy Manion and Eddie Held, has its potentialities. So has Maurice McCarthy of old Flintlush. He has been playing fool-proof golf during recent weeks.

Having said which, we come down once up—to George Voigt, the Washington amateur with the emphasis on the last word at the request of the U. S. G. A. Voigtch has shown in the South that, when right, he can play golf that might well carry him to the national honor with the gift of the sport.

Flynn Put Stop to All Massages for Dempsey

(This is the second of a series of articles in which Leo P. Flynn tells how he brought back Jack Dempsey.)

By LEO P. FLYNN,
Manager of Jack Dempsey.

New York, Aug. 18.—Jack Dempsey and I signed our contract at the Belmont Hotel on the afternoon of July 21. It did not take us 60 seconds to agree on the terms.

"There's only one thing I want to know, Jack," I told him, "Do you really think in your heart that I am your friend? Do you really believe that I'm with you heart and soul?"

"Certainly I do, Leo," he exclaimed. "If I wasn't sure of that, I wouldn't want you."

"Then I'll take the job with pleasure," I said. "I had to know first that you believed in me. If you didn't, you couldn't have confidence in what I would tell you, and in that event, we both would be wasting our time."

MRS. JACK DEMPSEY gave me my first tip on what was wrong with Jack. She came in the room to meet me after we had concluded our business talk. She was nervous and excited.

The Dempseys had another suite down the hall, and it was filled up with newspapermen, photographers and friends who wanted to see the champion.

"You'll have to excuse me if I refer to Dempsey as the "champion" in these articles. You'll understand why after he gets through with Tunney

Anyway, after the first greetings were over, Mrs. Dempsey turned to Jack and insisted that he take a nap.

"I want you to send all these people away, dear," she ordered. "You are too tired to talk any more this afternoon."

"I don't mean you, of course, Mr. Flynn," she continued. "He really needs to talk to you, but I think he has been under too great a strain to talk to anyone else this afternoon.

"I want him to get a good rub and lie down. He sleeps much better after Jerry gives him a massage, Mr. Flynn," she explained.

I didn't say anything, but I did some tall thinking. That was the first time I got hep to one of the things that was the matter with Dempsey.

Sure, he would sleep better after a rub. So would anyone. A hard massage is almost as effective as a stint of ether. It's entirely too exhausting for a fighter, in my opinion.

Needless to say, there was very little managing done after I got Dempsey at our Saratoga camp. Dempsey had no strength to waste, and I think the results proved my theory was correct.

WHILE I am on the subject of Mrs. Dempsey, I want to say that she played a bigger part than anyone in helping her husband come back.

It took care of the physical end of the job, and I had a lot of help, but Mrs. Dempsey took care of the mental end, and she did it all by herself.

Dempsey went into the ring in better shape mentally than he ever was in his life, and he has his good wife to thank for that.

They talked over the long-distance every night. As P. p. m. on the dot, the telephone bell in our cottage would jingle. It would be Mrs. Dempsey, away out in Los Angeles, calling up Jack to bid him good-night.

Those talks had a wonderful effect on Jack. No matter how tough the day had been, no matter what had come up to ruffle his temper, nothing seemed to matter after he had talked with his wife. She was like a soothing syrup to Jack. He hit the hay as soon as she hung up, and he was asleep before you could say Jack Robinson.

IT takes a woman of unusual character to do what Mrs. Dempsey did. She left Jack at Saratoga, and travelled to California all alone. She wired him a cheerful message from every station along the road.

And when the tragedy of his brother's death came up, she took charge of everything. She superintended the shipment of the body and the funeral by telegraph. She's a peach, that girl is.

I think the Bell Telephone Company will join me in applauding Mrs. Dempsey. She was a real good customer. I remember they talked $35 worth during the last two nights we were in camp.

I talked with Dempsey quite a bit during the two days he spent in New York. I learned the second day that I had been mistaken in my first appraisal of him. He had been suffering from the long train ride, the inactivity and the subsequent excitement.

It was only natural that he would look pale and peaked. Much to my relief, his color came back the next day, and I found that he was in much better shape than I had thought

Mostil Looks Good in Long Workout

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Johnny Mostil, leading base runner and best outfielder in the American League in 1925 and 1926, made his 1927 debut with the White Sox yesterday interval. Mostil had been out of the game all season as a result of a shinbone injury in the training camp in Shreveport last March.

He did not get to the game today, but indulged in a long workout, during which he displayed all his old-time speed of foot. It is probable that Mostil will go on a regular play for at least a week or ten days.

2 FAVORITES BEATEN AT WOODLAND

Bobby Cox of Tedesco and Julian Hargraves Put Out in First Match

With two exceptions all of the favorites came through in the first round of match play at Woodland. In spite of the inclement weather conditions, the players were on hand early.

The chief surprises of this round were the defeats of Bobby Cox, the Tedesco star, and Julian Hargraves, the youth who turned in the best nine holes during the qualifying round. Cox fell before the steady play of Myron D. Smith of Woodland, the match extending to nineteen holes, with the latter a one-up victor.

Hargraves, who is somewhat erratic, fell by the same margin before Jake Shneiderman of Scituate. The latter has been showing some fine golf lately, and managed to earn a hard-fought decision over the Pranksgiven youngster.

Marshall Forrest of Vesper, winner of the low gross prize, was given a bye by R. S. Phillips of Chestnut Hill, the score of their match being 1 up also.

The other favorites were Perley Crosby of Woodland J. W. Filoon, Jon Batchelder of Salem, Joe Lynch of Annemarie and Tom Welch of Scituate. All came through successfully and by comfortable margins.

Joe Lynch's match from C. J. K. Wright is the large one for 2 and 6, while Crosby put out the low net winner E. M. Fisher of Winchester to the tune of 3 and 2. Batchelder defeated of the Exeter boy, M. A. Heath, by 4 and 2, and Filoon managed the Junior net score, by a easy time both E. J. St. Cœur of Woodland and win a 5 and 4 decision.

Tommy Welch took Bill Donnelly by the same score.

FIRST ROUND—MATCH PLAY

M. W. Forrest defeated R. S. Phillips, 1 up.
P. Y. Crosby defeated E. M. Fisher, 3 and 2.
J. W. Filoon defeated C. J. K. Wright, 5 and 4.
J. M. Batchelder defeated M. A. Heath by 4 and 2.
Joe Lynch defeated E. J. St. Cœur, 5 and 4.
Jake Schneiderman defeated Julius Hargraves 1 up.
Tom Welch defeated W. H. Donnelly, 5 and 4.
M. D. Smith defeated R. V. Cox, 19 holes.

Godfrey-Heeney Match Planned

New York, Aug. 18.—The victory of George Godfrey, Chicago negro heavyweight, over Jim Maloney, in their bout at Philadelphia last Monday night, has boosted the negro's stock in these parts. Promoter Humbert Fugazy yesterday revealed that he is dickering for a bout between Godfrey and Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, who is under contract to box for Fugazy in Illinois Sept. 9 on September 7. The contest, if it is arranged, is expected to attract unusual local interest.

Another match for which Fugazy is contemplating negotiations is a lightweight title struggle between Champion Sammy Mandell and Sid Terris, the East Side flash, who is recognized as the outstanding challenger. Fugazy says the battle as an attraction at the Polo Grounds, but Mandell's excessive financial demands constitute an insurmountable bar. It is said that Mandell wants to sign only under terms which will guarantee him a return of $75,000 if he loses the title.

SAMMY MANDELL REJECTS BIG TERRIS BOUT OFFER

New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, has rejected Promoter Humbert Fugazy's offer of $40,000 to fight Sid Terris, New York contender, here on October 12, Mandell's manager announced today.

Fugazy is attempting to arrange a bout between Tom Heeney and Leo Gudfrey on August 31.

JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FOLKS sometimes get odd ideas about certain people and no matter what those people do later to shatter that idea it still sticks.

Just because my earliest ring career was pretty well cluttered with one and two round knockout victories everybody came to the conclusion that I was just one of those ring sprinters; a fellow who had to win in a round or two or risk the chance of losing.

They never gave me credit for ability to travel a distance, yet my record proves that with the single exception of the Tunney fight I got better the farther I went in the different endurance battles of my lifetime.

The longest fight I ever had was in a 12-rounder with Tom Gibbons out in St. Paul, Minn. Most of the experts figured I'd beat Tom in three or four rounds, but after I had it figured that I didn't have enough running would grow slimmer with each new round.

Gradually I began to find my way, but Tom got away to a fair start in that fight. I started slowly. But as the fight progressed I got better. As the battle went along I was Tom who started to slip and flounder around on me.

I guess everybody at the ringside was willing to admit that I was the fighter in Tom every step of the way during the last five rounds and that I was fighting faster and more furiously during the last five than I had in the first two.

I went twelve with Bill Brennan. I didn't do much in the first few but Bill did plenty to me. He punched me around a lot of the time and abandon thing and he out-fought me and made me look bad.

That made those who backed Bill in at 4 to 1 feel that he'd get better as the rounds went on and that I'd "blow"—and perhaps lose the fight.

BUT I got started along in the tenth and I galloped along with a rush. But once I got going well, Bill didn't last long. When the fight ended in the twelfth Bill felt that I could have travelled 12 more without exerting myself.

Back in the year before I was champion I always finished up strong in those fights where I failed to stop my man. In the Andre Anderson, the Burt Kenney and the Lester Johnson fights that I got tangled up in in 1916 when I was in New York, all three of those fellows took the first few rounds from me.

Then when I finally got going I travelled about twice as fast as they did and when the ten rounds ended I was in far better shape than they were. I could have gone for ten more, if it had been necessary. But not so much could be said for them.

IN the Sharkey fight I started slowly. I didn't get going until about the third. But when I did get started I began to speed it up more and then a little bit more, and I feel that I certainly was stepping faster than Sharkey in the fifth and sixth.

I was getting stronger all the time, instead of weaker, and I was just beginning to enjoy the entertainment when it ended.

The Tunney fight was different. I never could get started that night. I was always just shuffling around, instead of really getting warmed up to the job. And I'll admit that when the finish came I felt mighty tired. But that was the first and only time in my career that the end of the fight found me rather glad it was over.

At the end of all the others I usually was a bit sorry, because it meant that my evening's fun was all done.

BRITON POLO TEAM ONLY FAIR

Meadowbrook, N. Y., Aug. 18—Great Britain's new world-beating international polo four perished off the Eastern coast here on the first really fast field they have found under the hoofs of their Indian and Australasian mounts since they arrived in this country.

The final score was 11 to 7 but the figures make the victors far more impressive than it was. For a long stretch, the British contingent was outmounted and outplayed and outgeneraled by a combination composed of Earl Higgins, polo writer for the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, and the American veteran, Devereux Milburn, who has been playing polo since the days when the game was played on bicycles. Higgins and Milburn, who have been playing together for years, were a perfect match for the Britishers. They had speed, and never exhausted their ponies.

The red shirted Argentinian team, left out of the game in the first chukker, gave the crowd of 10,000 a scare by the time the first half of the game was over. The Britishers, who had been playing a fast game, were completely outplayed in the first period. Their mounts were tired and fast tempered, and the Americans, with deadly effect and brilliant passing, had the British four completely outclassed. Lacking the fire and dash displayed by their opponents, the British four does not come up to the mark in the matter of sheer action.

Even the two best players were not doing and going to pieces, the stars of the British aggregation gave out of action.

Edwards was replaced into Atkinson with deadly effect and Hopping, who for the only time in the series has shown form out of the way to get in his shots.

Many Ways in Which to Serve Berries

DURING the Summer months, when cool, inviting foods are particularly important to health and comfort, berry dishes are popular and pleasing.

There are many ways in which berries, whether fresh or canned, can be served—in salads, mousses, pies and cakes, ice cream, etc. The use of gelatine with berries adds variety to this tempting product of nature, and increases the nutritional qualities of the dish.

Then there is the additional attractive feature of the use to which left-over berry juices can be put. Delicious and nourishing jellies can be made with berry juices. Add gelatine in the proportion of one level tablespoonful to one pint of juice, soften the gelatine in one-fourth cup cold juice, add one and three-fourths cups hot juice, turn into a wet mold and chill.

This may be used as a dessert or salad. Fruit juices may also be canned or bottled when left over, without sugar, and used later as needed by combining with gelatine. Berry salads, sponges, mousses and creams are easily made with the aid of gelatine.

BERRY SALAD SUPREME—Two level tablespoonfuls gelatine, 1 cup cold water, 2 cups boiling water, ½ cup mild vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 cup berries, 1 cup other fruit.

Soak gelatine in cold water and dissolve in the boiling water. Add sugar and stir until dissolved; add vinegar and salt. Allow jelly to thicken somewhat. Then add prepared fruit (cut and turn into wet molds. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

BERRY MARSHMALLOW—Two level tablespoonfuls gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup orange juice or canned pineapple juice, 3 tablespoonfuls lemon juice, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups strawberries, raspberries or loganberries, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 1 dozen marshmallows, few grains of salt.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add half the sugar, orange and lemon juice. Mash berries with remaining sugar. Add to first mixture. Let stand until slightly thickened and then beat thoroughly. Add marshmallows cut in quarters and then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pile in glass and garnish with whole berries.

SPANISH CREAM WITH BERRIES—One level tablespoonful gelatine, 2 cups milk, 3 eggs, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoonful salt, 2 teaspoonfuls vanilla, berries.

Soak gelatine in the milk ten minutes. Place over hot water, and when gelatine is dissolved add sugar. Pour slowly on well-beaten yolks of eggs, return to double boiler and cook until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Remove from stove and let stand and cool. When cold whites of eggs beaten very stiff.

Turn into mold having mixture overflow mold. Cover tightly, seal and pack in ice and salt for three hours. Or turn mixture into trays of electric refrigerator.

Equally tasty.

A clever woman invented this

A "Savory Sandwich Spread" she calls it—the cooking expert who invented the new recipe. It is a clever blending of many different flavors into one appetizing whole! . . . And it's so much more delicious—and less expensive—because she has used Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk in place of the made up mayonnaise such spreads usually call for. Here's the recipe:

Savory Sandwich Spread

½ cup Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
pepper
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon scraped onion
2 cups chopped boiled ham

Into the condensed milk beat the vinegar, then the mustard and salt. Add the other ingredients and use as filling for sandwiches on rye or wheat bread.

You really ought to keep Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk always on hand for your cooking. Whenever a recipe calls for both milk and sugar, Standard Milk is a better milk to use. It is two ingredients in one—a blend of pure, fresh, full-cream country milk and finest sugar. Super-rich—because most of the water has been taken out. Super-smooth—because the sugar is so perfectly blended in. And super-economical—super-convenient—because it keeps fresh for days after the can is opened—even without ice!

Get Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk today. Use it for desserts, hot breads, salad dressing, candies, ice cream, etc. . . . And be sure you try it in coffee! You'll love the flavor and richness it gives. Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk creams and sugars to perfection, at one-half the cost of separate cream and sugar!

WHEN A MAN FINDS A GIRL WANTS TO BE MARRIED HE THINKS IT'S ETHICS
AND WHEN A GIRL FINDS A MAN CHIVALROUS SHE THINKS HE HAS A GOOD HEART
BUT AFTER MARRIAGE SHE SOMETIMES FINDS HIM HARD—
WHENEVER IT IS SAID MARRIED PEOPLE GROW ALIKE IN TIME!
© 1927 Premier Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

In LIFE many women have good HEARTS,
And many men have ETHICS.
Then, BOTH go out and look for what
They, themselves, POSSESS—in others.
When a MAN finds a GIRL wants to be MARRIED, he thinks it is a matter of ETHICS.

And when a girl finds a man CHIVALROUS she Thinks it SHOWS he has a good HEART.
But after MARRIAGE it sometimes happens

That the woman finds the MAN very HARD, and the man finds the WOMAN
WEAK. Neither has measured up.
STILL there is always HOPE. For it is said

That MARRIED PEOPLE grow alike—in time.
So,
Later, if one has ETHICS and the other a warm
HEART, they may make a happy exchange.

Reed Discusses Useful and Harmful Instincts

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR instincts are recognized as surviving inherited tendencies derived from the super ences and habits of your race under conditions of primitive necessity.

These conditions of primitive necessity no longer exist, but the best supplanted by the more complex and increasing complex conditions of civilization.

It is necessary, therefore, intelligently and consciously so to control and direct your instincts that they shall be in harmony with the natural law, as it makes for the happiness and welfare of society in general and of yourself in particular.

An important instance of how change of environment has converted a useful instinct into a harmful one, tending to lessen health and promote disease, as pointed out by Alexander, is the following: A man can only enjoy good health by properly controlling the carriage of his body, and to do this he must keep his spinal column as erect as possible more particularly he should continue the neck column of the spinal column as straight upward as possible, with the head square upward on top of it throughout most of his activities. According to Professor Magnus of Utrecht the whole mechanism of the body acts in such a way that the head leads and the body follows. A correct relationship between the head and the trunk is therefore vital. Now, the reason why so few people carry their bodies right is the carrying over of a primitive instinct, which was once sound and helpful enough, into an environment where it has become unsound and harmful. If a primitive man raised himself erect he was liable to be seen over the grass and shrubs by his wolf or bear, and eaten. Therefore he learned to crouch and keep his head down the back. In civilization, however, with its sedentary environment, this once useful habit causes slack muscles, a pendulous belly, displacement of bodily organs and sluggishness of the bowels.

It is significant that persons in a state of anxiety and fear immediately tend to drop their heads and round the shoulders. If a man merely conquers his fear he has done a great deal towards acquiring a healthy body. Of course, there are other factors, many of them, in the causation of bodily posture, but the foregoing observations are worthy of thought.

Alexander does not believe in consciously holding an end in view and working for it. The golf professional advises his pupils to "follow through." But who has ever met a professional who could tell him how to do it. I mention this with some exasperation. To concentrate on the end to be attained, even on "following through" is a hindrance to obtaining it. Alexander advises concentration on the means and let the end take care of itself.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been asked by my friends to attend a wedding which is to take place soon. I do not know the bride or the bridegroom and think that I should not attend. My friends say that it is perfectly all right for me to go with them, although I am not invited and do not know any one except my friends. Don't you think that it would be silly for me to go with them? The wedding will be in a hall.

WORRIED.

YOUR own judgment on this problem is absolutely correct. You really should not go to the wedding without an invitation.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am going to a wedding. I do not know the bride, but the bride's relative has sent me an invitation. Now what gift would be appropriate, and who is to buy it, my escort or myself, or should we both give her a gift?

DOROTHY H.

YOU, not your escort, would buy the gift, which should be something for the new home. You can send an item in silver or glass for the table, or some decorative detail for the house.

A Story of Sylvia Byrant, Stenographer, Among the Money Crowd

Joyce Ackerman, society woman and wife of Vance Ackerman, a rich broker, appeals to a mutual friend, Alexander Ladd, a successful lawyer, to help her in her battle with Margot Liggett, who has won her husband's affections. Ladd persuades Mrs. Ackerman to install Sylvia Bryant, his stenographer, in her home as her social secretary. Ackerman admires Sylvia's beauty and charm, and Stuart Gifford, a cousin, falls in love with her. Ackerman takes her to the theatre; Margot sees them and they adjourn to a cabaret.

Ackerman starts drinking and to get him away Sylvia feigns illness and he takes her to the Ackerman home. She hears a soft knocking on her door.

She opens the door and comes face to face with Gifford. She tries to send him away when Ackerman appears and the two men engage in a fist fight. The next morning Sylvia is on the point of leaving the house for good when Mrs. Ackerman confesses the real reason why she engaged her and begs her to stay. Sylvia agrees.

At Ladd's suggestion the Ackerman family, with Gifford and Ladd, go to the mountains. Sylvia wonders if she is falling in love with Gifford.

Ladd warns Gifford to leave Sylvia alone, but the latter defies him. Ladd sends for Sylvia.

CHAPTER 22

FOR a moment something uncanny in the eyes of Vance Ackerman altered Sylvia with a chilly tremor around the heart. Her eyes traveled swiftly to Joyce's face—published a message of desperation. Alexander Ladd affected a nonchalance that fooled it a cigarette. Ackerman's eyes, unruly and unnatural, compelled her attention. She knew, swiftly, what the others expected from her. Instantly, she smiled, casually, with an ease designed to lull the man she wrought man.

"I couldn't sleep," Vance Ackerman said, heavily.

"I know—I have insomnia myself sometimes," Sylvia told him.

He beckoned her into a chair beside him. "That's right. I was just telling Joyce and Ladd here that you seem to understand me better than anyone else," he said, approvingly. "They thought because I was a little upset tonight there was something wrong. Rubbish! You hit it the first time—insomnia; that's all."

"It wears off," Sylvia told him.

"Yes; it wears off—everything wears off, in time," he said pensively.

Suddenly he leaned forward, held her with his eyes. She thought there was a faint, pleading expression in them.

"I have been making an awful fool of myself, Miss Bryant. Been drinking too much, I guess. Little bit dazed . . . know what I mean?" All of you"—he waved a hasty hand—"you've got to be a little patient with me."

The rest were silent; Sylvia answered: "Of course; we all understand . . ."

"Well, I'm glad to have you around me," he told her, seriously. "There's something so cool and detached about you that you exert a soothing influence." His eyes bored at her, as though he were trying to solve something beyond his comprehension. "I have a suspicion I am being perfectly ridiculous. It doesn't matter, though. It's these damnable lonely mountains that are upsetting me. How about it, Joyce? Can't we go back to Boston?"

"Tomorrow, if you like," his wife said, carefully pleasant.

"Good! I'll certainly be glad to see—"

He checked himself quickly. Too well everyone in the room knew what he meant. Boston and Margot Liggett were linked together in his mind.

"If it's settled we're going, I think I'll do a little packing tonight. Hadn't you better begin to get your things together, too, Vance?" Joyce certainly had," he told her, with a sprightly note.

"I suppose we had all better begin to get busy," Stuart Gifford said diplomatically.

Ackerman got his feet. Swathed in his colorful bath robe, he was still a dignified figure; there was about him, even then, something of the power of an ancient Roman senator, but a power—a bearing—blurred and unreal. He might have been, under other circumstances, a man the equal of Alexander Ladd—indeed strong, virile.

None of this, apparently, had distances. Ladd at a lie lingered in the living room after the others left and Sylvia felt that he wanted to speak after Gifford had gone.

When they were alone, Ladd temporarily ignored her, stood by a window gazing far out at the wooded, moonlit slopes. Again Sylvia had the irrational feeling that she, personally, was to him an incomprehensible instrument with which he was working. Ever so little—and this hurt her pride—she was awed by him. His vitality was too polished and brutal; his grimness, his reckleasness, combined the simple urges of a savage with the intellectual gloss of civilization. In repose his face had, almost, the stern outline of an Indian. Here, in these rather primitive surroundings, his tremendous vigor was more marked even than it had been in the city. It was fortunate, she decided, for Stuart Gifford that they had not met in physical combat.

His weary disregard wore on her nerves. "Well; what is it?" she asked him finally, a tenseness in her voice she could not control.

He turned to her slowly. From a brass tray on the table he took a cigarette and filled his lungs with a deep, steady intake of smoke.

"I want you to watch your step with that fellow Gifford. You didn't do it, Sylvia?"

"I—" the right answer did not come easily to her.

"Don't bother to invent excuses if you haven't a real one. In the future, try not to be such a jellyfish. You have some kind of a brain in that good looking head of yours—try to use it. It's going to be a tough job getting Ackerman handled properly, and your influence alone is about the only force we have to work with. I have a feeling that we can save him if he doesn't go utterly to pieces on our hands. I am going to introduce him somehow to the best scandals with him because I might have hurt him, and I don't want to complicate it the present and have them size him up secretly. We can't try anything crude or harsh; I imagine they are going to agree with me, and in that case your task may be highly unpleasant. Do you think you can refrain from complicating it by getting on a love affair with 'young Gifford'?"

Internally something was putting Sylvia on her own table. "I won't wobble a rain," she said firmly.

"Wobble as much as you please—after it's all over," Alexander Ladd told her bloodlessly. "See this thing through as I tell you and you won't lose anything by it. Another thing, did you think I was afraid of Gifford out there tonight, when he wanted to fight?"

"I knew you weren't afraid."

"He may think so, but you had better know the truth. I didn't mix Vance's troubles with anything like that. I don't want even any scenes. If you can do it, I wish you would use your influence to get Gifford to forget the rough stuff. If necessary, I'll step on him, but did rather not. Things you can manage it?"

"I'll try," Sylvia answered. "I think I can."

"I have no faith in his courage, but he may try to show off a little in front of you. Humor—do your best. I think that is all for the present. We leave for Boston tomorrow and you will have to rely on your own judgment in most things. Joyce understands the situation, of course. Make it your business to stick close to Ackerman. If you get into a situation you can't handle, phone me. That's all. Goodnight!"

Sleep did not come easily to Sylvia. The romantic appeal of Stuart Gifford was still strongly upon her. His words of adoration lingered mechanically in her mind. She realized pleasantly, that he had stirred her emotions profoundly—something had been set up that was akin to love. She wondered if it might not be infatuation, a response of the senses. She was glad, though evasively, of the prohibition Alexander Ladd had put upon sentimental intimacy with the younger man. There would be time to reflect, to test her feeling. She had no thought or desire to resist Ladd's edict. This time, it was disconcerting—the force with which he seemed to dominate her. No good telling herself that this was her job, that it was because of loyalty to Joyce Ackerman. In her heart she knew. Alexander Ladd had an executive power of command that was virtually, irresistible.

Her heart ached for Joyce Ackerman. There was a pity that amounted almost to tenderness for the obsessed Vance Ackerman. For her own self, there was a little, shivering fear of what the future held. Even now, finally, she admitted, there was an unconscious disturbance in her slumber . . . apprehension.

It was with her the next day, on the train back to Boston. What ever she did, there was impalpably about her something chilly and hard and uncertainty . . . Even the security of the Ackerman home she knew by now—its substantial outlines and heavy furniture—failed to still the vague premonition crippling her. They dined, all of them, together when they got home, and she sat at the table, a reflection of her own fears in the turbid eyes of Vance Ackerman.

Young Men Still Anxious to Marry

By Beatrice Fairfax

WHILE HE WORKS AT HIS ART, HE DREAMS OF HER

SETTLE DOWN WHEN YOU'VE MADE A START AT YOUR WORK

By Beatrice Fairfax
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

JUDGING by my correspondence, young men are as eager as girls to receive impartial advice on questions that arise regarding friendship, courtship, love, marriage and "settling down."

While young people do not, as a rule, settle down as stolidly and heavily nowadays as their ancestors may have done, yet now as of old the time comes in the experience of most girls and young men when they wish to find a helpmate, found a home and undertake seriously the responsibilities of marriage and bring up a family.

Herman writes:

"I am an artist. At twenty-four I drew a salary of $23 weekly for spreading commercial lettering in a sign shop.

"I attend a high school art class, evenings, and am art editor of the school magazine. Spare moments, I make cartoons and cover designs.

"About two years ago I met a girl named Sue. She and I are both gifted. Sue is slim and young and womanly. I took a liking to her and we went together about eight months. She often hugged and kissed me and finally proposed to me.

"I stopped keeping company with her, partly because I'm not earning enough to support a wife, and partly because she was ill so much of the time and did not seem to try to build up her health and strength.

"I was introduced to my next sweetheart—Ethel—through a chum of mine. She is a very pretty girl and sociable, with dark bobbed hair. She lives two hours from my home. I have corresponded with her nearly a year.

"My mind is unsettled. I do not know whether this is because I have not yet met my ideal or because I am not making enough to support a life partner. My parents want me to settle down and get married.

"Do you think I should stop going around with girls until I am earning enough to support a wife?

Shall I go back to the girl who proposed to me and living here? Or shall I continue to keep company with both? I don't know whether I like her or not, although I like to hug her and kiss her when we say good-night. HERMAN."

The right time to marry and settle down is an individual problem. It is safe to say, however, that before marrying a man should know precisely what he wants to do with his life and should have made a successful start in the direction in which he intends to travel. Still more important, a man should marry for love and should not marry until he has met the woman who is to be the mother of his children.

You are not yet in love, Herman. If you were, you would know it beyond all doubt. And passing weeks and months would only strengthen your certainty.

At present, why do you not bend every effort to making a success of the art you love so much? Study and work and save your money.

"Emily didn't care for him, really. I wonder she put that codicil to her will."

"He probably hypnotized her into it. Who in Newton knows him best?"

"Both the Stevensons. I guess I'm confused with here. Want to call them up?"

"I think I'll go over there. Are they easy people to talk to?"

"Delightful. But, if I were the matter, quiet a little longer, don't you think? The search party may bring some news."

"Can't wait. I've got to move. If Rod comes home, call me at he Stevensons."

Feeling the imperative need of action, Gibby went to the Stevenson house.

He went cross lots, and thought the road was a new one to him, he had a fine sense of direction and went straight to his goal.

He thought as he plodded along that this must be the very road Emily had traversed when she started for the hospital.

At least, it was the road she meant to take, whether she had ever done so or not.

She had certainly not reached the hospital, and who could know just where she had changed her course?

Involuntarily, Pete looked for footprints.

But none were possible on the hard, stony road, covered, too, with drifts of genial softness and warmth.

At the Stevenson house, Gibby was greeted by a large, stalwart man of genial affability and cordial manner.

His errand made known, Alec Stevenson looked earnestly at him, and then asked him to go with him into his den.

There, with the door shut, his host told Pete that he had no use for the forsaken in question, but that Mrs. Stevenson was really fairly fond of him, and therefore he could say nothing to his disparagement.

"But what do you know of his standing, his history," urged Pete.

"Nothing, simply nothing" said Stevenson, with such an air of finality that it seemed useless to prod further.

"And, I suppose, Mrs. Stevenson knows no more than you do?" he said.

"No. Not of his past or his spare acre. The women of the place here took him up, and in true feminine fashion they wanted no guarantee or references. Sorry not to be more helpful, but that's how it is."

But as Pete Gibby walked back through the starless, murky night, he remarked to himself that Friend Stevenson was one large and elegant liar.

MAURINE MAKES ARTFUL DODGE

Sidesteps When Asked to Act as Bridesmaid; One Page Nearer End of Lila Wheeler Wilson's Tear Teaser.

So it came to pass, on page one hundred and sixty-three, that Helen Trevor told Vivian Dangerfield that she would rather be his wife "than to be the worshiped consort of a king," and Vivian would not take his umbrella and rubbers and go home until she "vowed to wed him New Year's Day."

Helen immediately bounced over to Maurine—sweet, broken-hearted Maurine—and piped:

"... I shall not feel half wed without you, dear, to be my darling bridesmaid here."

Maurine spoke up—

"Nay I cannot, dear! 'Twould disarrange my plans for half a year.

I'll be in Europe New Year's Day," she said.

"Far, far away—when you are wed."

Maurine was nobody's fool—she was not going to suffer the more by wearing festal garments of a wedding scene—

"While all her heart hung with sorrow's sable."

But—

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

DON'T BLAME OTHERS

By LUCY LOWELL.

MOST of us are all too ready to blame the other fellow for our own failures.

"If I hadn't listened to him I never would have got into this trouble," is a phrase that you hear often enough.

What it really means is this: "If things had gone right I'd be satisfied; I'd even reach around and pat myself on the back for being wise. But since the enterprise he failed I must have someone else to cast the burden of poor judgment upon. I certainly don't intend to carry it myself."

Not a very noble frame of mind but a common one.

And it isn't for our own failures only that we're willing to blame others — it's a first impulse—perhaps human, but one which would have much embarrassment and no end of disagreeableness if it were controlled—to lay accusation upon the person at hand

A woman coming out of a shoe shop the other day discovered, suddenly, that she had lost the purchase she just made. Looking about in the crowd she saw a man moving rapidly away, under his arm a box in the identical wrapping that had been around her own box.

Obeying that first impulse, she ran after him and accused him of having stolen her shoes. Since his amazement looked to her like guilt, she demanded that someone in the crowd which gathered call an officer.

"Wait a minute, madam," he said. And opened the box. In it there was a pair of men's shoes, very different from the satin pumps she had bought.

At that moment a clerk came running out with her parcel. She had left it behind her in the shop.

The crowd laughed and the woman blushed. It will be some time before she carelessly places blame again.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

RECENTLY, the disgruntled husbands of two wealthy divorcees have publicly confessed that their services as spouses were paid for first by a settlement in cold cash and afterward in a running salary.

• • •

The world seems to be full of wealthy women who are willing to exchange real money for a little imitation love and a few life-like kisses. Buying a husband, either for sput cash or on the installment plan, is the latest fad of the woman with more dollars than sense.

• • •

Fair enough! But, why is it that these "bought-and-paid-for" husbands so seldom seem willing to EARN the easy money they squander; even when all that is asked of them is a few caresses and a pleasant smile?

• • •

Why do such men always rebel, sooner or later, and bite the hand that has pawned its diamonds in order to feed their monogrammed cigarettes, keep them in silk pajamas and pay their gambling debts?

• • •

When a woman marries a man for his money, she usually makes up her mind to earn it, by giving a life-like imitation of wifely devotion in return. She runs his house, bears his children and strives to do him credit when she presides at his dinner parties.

• • •

But the man who marries a woman for her money never seems to figure that he is under the slightest obligation to give her value received. This is not always because he is "that kind of a man"—the "taking" kind—but just because he is a man!

• • •

Down in the heart of every he-male—even the wormiest heart—is the aboriginal conviction that he is woman's "superior." And to know that he is the object of her charity irks him beyond endurance.

• • •

The more favors she lavishes upon him, the more he hates her. The more tenderly she treats him, the more bitterly he resents her claims as an income tax and her generosity and affection as an insult.

• • •

He is filled with contumely—and what spills over is HERS! The only way in which he seems to be able to hold on to the remaining shreds of his pride is to treat her with scorn, neglect or contempt. And that's where the purse-strings tighten!

• • •

A man values a motor car or a wife, according to what they have COST him, in money, work, or self-sacrifice! And the kind of wife who pays the bills, makes life one long, sweet song for him, and asks nothing in return is classed right with the coffee percolator that was bought with cigarette coupons, and the Japanese fan that comes with a pound of tea.

• • •

Women have won by the heart strings, by the apron strings and even by the shoe-strings. But no woman ever held a man by the PURSE STRINGS.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

Three-Minute Journeys

"STRANGER, whosoever thou art and whatsoever be thy creeds, when thou enterest this sanctuary, remember that thou treadest upon ground hallowed by the worship of ages. This is the Temple of Buddha and the Gate of the Eternal, and should be entered with reverence." This is the inscription on the gate of the Daibutsu, in Kamakura on Big Buddha, one of the most famous in all Japan.

The remarkable statue, the largest bronze casting in existence, has been standing since 1252, but it has been so cracked and twisted by the elements that it is estimated that it will cost $10,000 to repair it.

This particular Amida, or Buddha, is seated on a lotus flower. The figure itself reaches a height of forty-nine feet seven inches, the circumference being ninety-seven feet and weighs 490 tons. Its eyes are of pure gold, while the embossed circle which measures fifteen inches in diameter on its head contains thirty pounds of pure silver.

The image has 830 curls on its head (each being about nine inches in height) which are symbolic of the snails, which, according to legend, were supposed to have crawled on to Buddha's head to shelter its baldness from the hot rays of the sun.

On each side of the figure are two bronze lotus plants which reach a height of fifteen feet. The visitor to the temple can enter the interior of the figure through an orifice on the right side of the plant, and can climb up an inside ladder to its shoulders, where there are two small windows. In the interior of the figure may be found two small Amidas.

The Buddha itself has a distinctly Hindu cast of character, the expression of its face being calm, peaceful and majestic, suggestive of absorbed meditation.

DO YOU KNOW THAT---

The Christian name of Isabel is a corruption of Elizabeth. It was first corrupted as a compliment to Queen Elizabeth, who was called Elizabella. Afterward the first syllable was dropped.

One thousand cubic feet of gas will cook eighteen meals for six persons; heat shaving-water for 1,000 days; roast sufficient coffee to make two cups daily for seventy years; light two cigars a day for 800 years; boil 274 gallons of water; bake 1,700 three-quarter-pound loaves bread in a continuous oven; and do the work of two hens in hatching eggs!

From London to Birkenhead an express train recently thundered at ninety-two miles an hour to make a new speed record. Behind the powerful engine 250 tons of steel made up the special train.

"Sterling" means a coin of true weight, and is derived from the "Esterlings," German traders who coined pure money in England in the thirteenth century!

It is common knowledge to Arctic and Antarctic explorers that ounce more than a year old is entirely free from salt, although new ice contains the same amount of salt as sea water!

Enforced sleeplessness is an effective but unpopular way of losing weight. Two nights without sleep will have more effect than two weeks severe dieting.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

A LOS ANGELES employment agency says that over fifty thousand people a year try to get into the movies. One fellow he didn't know much about acting but he wanted to get in a picture where he had to kiss Gloria Swanson.

THE director couldn't use him, because he wasn't the right type. He had a face that only a mother could love and his mother was out of town.

IT'S too bad he looked so much like an airedale or he could have doubled for Rin Tin Tin.

INSTEAD of trying to get on the screen, he should go behind it.

THEY were filming a war picture last month and he wanted $10 a day for playing the part of the Unknown Soldier.

ANY director who'd hire her, doesn't know his arithmetic.

IF she thinks she's a perfect thirty-six then she ought to have herself audited.

SHE claims she's better than Theda Bara, but when it comes to being a siren, she looks like a five o'clock whistle.

SHE has no appeal. She couldn't even lure a man out of a burning building.

SHE bought a bottle of peroxide the other day in case she was offered the leading role in Gentlemen Prefer.

SHE used to have red hair until she lost the box of henna.

BUT for the last five or six years she's been a Pittsburgh blonde.

SHE has a pretty face, but it's been lifted so often it's all out of focus.

NURSE RELIEVES STUBBORN BED SORES WITHIN 24 HOURS

Simple Treatment Can Be Used by Anyone

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 28.—"I am a practical nurse and have been taking care of a patient—an elderly lady, 72, confined to her bed by paralysis. She had been obliged to lie on her back for months and a bed sore developed—the worst I have ever seen. The skin was broken and inflamed and an ugly secretion came from it. I applied Resinol Ointment and in twenty-four hours marked improvement. After one month's use the sore was practically healed. Hoping this letter may help someone else, I am, gratefully yours."—(Signed) E. S. Caldwell, 4122 Chester Avenue.

Salesman Likens Prospect to Fish and Enjoys Sport

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—We are all salesmen. We may not have to sell goods but we have to "sell" ourselves to others. If we don't succeed in doing this we are robbed of much of the material satisfaction.

The banker, the lawyer, the doctor, the dentist, are just as much salesmen as the drummer who sells typewriters or enamel goods or machinery.

How to sell is, therefore, a subject near to us all.

B. C. Forbes

I recall a successful salesman at lunch the other day:

"I am very fond of fishing. I have fished in many kinds of waters. I have used many kinds of bait. I have caught little fish and I have caught big fish. I have fished where all you had to do was to drop in your line and pull out a fish. And I have fished where you had to exercise hours of patience before getting anything at all. Sometimes I have had to struggle with your fish for several hours to land it.

"My fishing experiences have been very helpful to me as a salesman."

I asked "How?"

"Well," he replied, "take the other day. I went to see a big man, to sell him. He gave me a very chilly reception. He evidently was very brusque and, I suppose, if I had been tougher I would easily have felt insulted.

"Instead, I said to myself, 'I'll have to exercise patience and angling before I can land this fish. He's a big brute and very skittish about taking bait. He's in no hurry to see me. I'll have to have patience and try different bait on him.'

"So, instead of allowing myself to get ruffled, I saw the whole thing as a sporting proposition. I became intensely interested and settled down to enjoy the adventure.

"He seemed astonished at my good nature. He still kept very gloomy and unresponsive. But bye and bye I got him to answer one or two questions which I figured should interest him. I could see that he was beginning to give me decent attention. I was in no hurry to land him. I was mentally figuring myself as a fisherman playing a big fish that might get off the hook or snap the line at any moment.

"Finally, I decided not to force matters just then. But when I left I had his permission to call again.

"Before I did call again I was able to arrange a set-up which I felt confident would appeal to him. Sure enough on my next visit I landed him without any trouble.

"And, you bet, I got as great a thrill as if I had landed a big black bass or even a tarpon or a tuna."

Good nature is an essential requisite in selling. Many and many a time I have been turned down by financial and business leaders before the stories I started to dig out of them. I always regarded an initial refusal as a challenge to my ability as a salesman. I was always careful not to show the slightest resentment. I would confess disappointment because, as I went on to tell my man, I was sure that what I suggested would be a thing for him to do in his own interest.

Then it was up to me to convince him that it was in his interest to open up. As a matter of fact, if I couldn't convince him of this I didn't want him to talk. Only, I never suggested that any man do something which I doubted it would be wise for him to do.

It is first necessary, of course, for a salesman to have in his own mind a thing of real spirit and crusading zeal, must believe and believe ardently in what he is doing. He must be thoroughly convinced that it is to the advantage of others to do business with him.

Once a man is possessed by this conviction, success should not be beyond his reach, provided he supplements thorough knowledge of his product by courtesy, tact, good nature and persistency which stops short of being a pest.

LIGHT "MELON" SEEN AS HINT OF MERGER

Springfield, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—United Electric Light Co. today announced the transfer to its stockholders of the entire 2,360 shares of the Indian Orchard Co., a prosperous textile concern which for 27 years has been a subsidiary of the United Electric, and which was acquired because of its large water power rights at a time when these were valuable to the purchaser.

United Electric now obtains most of its power by purchase from the Turners Falls Power and Electric Co. and the Hartford Power and Electric Company.

The distribution of Orchard company shares will be on the basis of one share to each ten shares of United Electric stock held.

The Indian Orchard company will continue to operate under its own charter, but with United Electric stockholders as individual owners instead of company as a unit.

United Electric officers were not prepared to discuss what bearing the transaction might have on a reported move to unite that company with Western Massachusetts Companies, in which several nearby concerns are included.

BOSTON STOCKS JUMP MORE THAN 69 POINTS

Feature of the Boston stock auctions was the rise in Massachusetts Building Associations shares, which sold at 425½, an advance of 19½ points from the previous sale. In early trading this year the stock sold at 255 at the auctions, so its advance in some seven months has been 170 points, or more slightly over 75 per cent, in market value. Behind this sharp advance in a very few months are large earnings on the part of the company.

B. & M. STUDIES COMBINED AIR, RAIL SERVICE

Formation of a committee of officials to establish a policy of coordinating train service with aviation was announced by the Boston & Maine Railroad today.

G. Hannaner

Vice-President Gerrit Fort has been appointed chairman by President George Hannaner and chairman of the committee which is already looking forward to a date when the distance when airplane movements and train schedules will be worked out with the same precision which today applies to the motor coach as an adjunct to the railroad.

The Boston & Maine, one of the pioneer roads in the utilization of the motor bus, has at present 63 coaches operating on 1,500 miles of New England highway daily.

"There is in prospect no development in land or in the air which can supplant the railroad in the mass movement of people and their goods," said President Hannaner.

"This is especially true of New England with its density of population and of industrial activity. Yet I believe that we must be alert, to adapt ourselves and our service to the development in air transportation as they occur."

B. F. Keith

His Monument

If the new B. F. Keith Memorial Theatre, the corner-stone of which will be laid on Thursday of next week, is to be the very finest in America, as we are told it will, one of the greatest showmen the country has developed will have a monument worthy of his place and his achievements.

Keith was the young man from New Hampshire who joined hands with E. F. Albee, a youth from Maine, to scrub the old-time "variety show" clean, purge it of its coarseness and vulgarity, robe it in the habiliments of decency and refinement and introduce it to the United States as "vaudeville."

They found the "variety show" in upstairs halls, sometimes with bar attached, and they brought it down upon the street floor and placed it in theatres.

They originated the "continuous performance."

The PEOPLE of the varieties, when B. F. Keith took that department of the theatre in hand, were the poor relations of the drama. Thirty-five dollars was good pay for a week's labor. They made their own engagements, did their own "booking," usually by telegraph. They seldom knew until late in one week whether they were to be employed the next.

The labors of B. F. Keith, and of other men of ability and intelligence who entered the field subsequently, made vaudeville a profession and the performer an artist, who commanded, because he deserved, the respect of his fellows.

Under the Keith plan, the entertainer was paid a liberal salary, to say the least, and best of all was guaranteed continuous employment, a long tour of the Keith and allied houses. Nothing could be more fitting, therefore, than that in the ceremonials attending the laying of the Memorial corner-stone the people of the theatre, rather than even the most exalted of public officials, are to have first place.

If Mr. Keith did MOST for the people of the "show-shop," however, he did MUCH for its patrons. "Nice people," as a rule, kept away from the variety show, while vaudeville draws them by the thousands, day in and day out, all across the country. And why not, since Keith brought to his stage the great stars of every branch of the theatre—operatic, dramatic, concert, musical comedy, farce, films?

He entered upon the creative chapters of his career here in Boston, beginning in 1882 with a "store" show, adding an upstairs stage two or three years later, buying the Bijou Theatre in '86, and in the Spring of '94 completing that B. F. Keith's Theatre which ever since has been one of the things to see in Boston.

Since B. F. Keith passed on, a "new" Boston has been building. Great hotels the equal of any in the land, magnificent office buildings which represent the last word in business architecture, bank and insurance buildings of the most modern type and of tremendous cost, have been erected one after another, each costlier, more beautiful and more impressive than any that had been seen.

In keeping with this development, and in the due observance of the Keith-Albee custom of making each new theatre better than any of its contemporaries, the last word, the final touch, the Memorial Theatre will be the best and most beautiful of its time, a proper and befitting monument to Benjamin Franklin Keith.

The Gunman

No Town for Him

The Boston police, who have had an unusually difficult job on their hands for the past two weeks and who have handled it in a way comparable to the best work ever done in like circumstances by the best police department anywhere, stepped aside a day or two ago to make an arrest or two in connection with a "taxicab murder."

It is usually the outgrowth of war among gamblers or bootleggers.

It is comparatively new to Boston, although well-known in more than one city to the west.

It means that there are gangs in town, and that they are "operating."

Whether the police have arrested the right man in the South End case this newspaper does not know and will not attempt to say. We DO know that the department has moved with commendable speed. If they have not got the right man we believe they will get him.

When he IS found we hope nothing in the way of pull or political necessity will be permitted to get in the way of his punishment.

The entire country should be made to know that Boston is "closed tight" to the gunman.

How to Be Well

Easy Ways to Foil the Torrid Weather

How to be well and comfortable during a hot wave isn't so hard, if you are willing to remember and obey a few simple rules:

The body is cooled by the evaporation of moisture expelled through the pores of the skin. Therefore, one rule is to drink freely of cool water.

To keep the pores open it is wise to bathe frequently and to eat simple food in moderation, especially fruit and vegetables.

These two rules will yield good results in a normal body, though a third should be borne in mind. It is to be temperate in physical exertion.

Much of the discomfort felt when the thermometer soars is mental. Shakespeare, in "Hamlet," tells us:

"There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so."

Hence it is best to forget the heat.

Find an interesting task, immerse yourself in it, refuse to let others divert you by comments upon the weather, and the hottest day will speed pleasantly.

SHERLOCK HOLMES WILL LIVE ON

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A NEW book has appeared on my desk purporting to be the closing adventures of Mr. Sherlock Holmes, by Conan Doyle.

In the preface to this book Mr. Doyle says that this is to be the last of the Holmes stories.

He ought to know, for he made the first of them, and when a man announces the death of his own offspring it is rather likely to be true.

Pardon us while we shed a tear over the last of a valued friend. We were one of the first to welcome him. We have followed his adventures closely whenever we could get hold of them, and now we mourn his passing.

We have received the news of the death of many prominent men. They have been missed. But none, I venture to say, more so than the passing of this fictional character.

Holmes was the prototype of all detective stories, and detective stories have been the delight of great and small. As the admirable Hooker said of the Science of Law, so we say of Sherlock Holmes that "the very least felt his care and the greatest was not exempted from his power."

Why does the detective story interest us all?

Well, in the first place, crime is probably one of the most interesting things that we know. In it a man pits himself against all the forces of society and even against the Deity itself. And, somehow, there is something in us all that sympathizes with the outlaw and the rebel.

And again, we rather like to see the victim apprehended. We enjoy the old-fashioned triumph of law and order over violence. We like to hiss the villain and see his schemes come to naught.

Detective stories are problems in human conduct. The characters are usually clean cut. The villain is nothing but a villain and the hero is spotless.

There is no realistic mixing in of the colors.

Doyle has done a great service to humanity in beguiling its leisure moments, and who ever can cheer us up a bit is quite as much entitled to our thanks as the one who instructs us.

Hence we pipe our eye for the lamented Sherlock. We lay aside with a sigh these entrancing tales which have been done into a book.

Along with Victor Hugo and his Jean Valjean, Goethe and his Werner, Robert Louis Stevenson and his Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde, Doyle has created a character, and Sherlock Holmes will linger in the memories of mankind after the recollection of many real people has passed away.

FAMOUS ACTRESS

"THE Duse of the English-speaking stage" was the name applied to Annie Russell in England. It is said that in her method of expression, in the quietness of her acting, she reminded one of the famous Italian actress. However, in temperament they differed widely. Duse was an actress of intense suffering, passion and tragedy; while Miss Russell was tender, sensitive and pathetic.

Annie Russell was born in Liverpool, England, but when she was still very young the family moved to Canada. Miss Russell didn't have the slightest idea of ever becoming an actress. Her earliest ambition was to become an authoress. She did submit a manuscript, but when it was returned with the usual rejection slip, she never made another attempt.

Her fondness for the stage developed at amateur theatricals. She appeared at a church fair, substituting for the leading woman, who had been taken ill. She was the hit of the occasion. Then she joined a dramatic club.

Miss Russell's debut as a professional actress was at the age of ten, under Rose Eytinge. This was in Montreal in the play called, "Miss Multon." When that play closed, Miss Eytinge advised her to go to New York. Her first important engagement was as Esmeralda, at the Madison Square Theatre in New York. Miss Russell appeared in that play about nine hundred times, three hundred and fifty of them in New York. "Esmeralda" was considered one of the great successes of stage history.

Some of her other successful appearances were in "Hazel Kirke," as Fusha Leach in "Mother," Maggie in "Engaged," Lady Vavir in "Broken Hearts," Sylvia Spencer in "Our Society."

Her greatest triumph, after Esmeralda, was Elaine. Regarding Miss Russell's performance, a Boston critic said: "The word exquisite is not misapplied in speaking of it. It was a most complete and harmonious, a most poetic, yet real performance."

On account of ill health, Miss Russell retired from the stage and for a long time it was not expected that she would ever act again. She recovered her health, after five years of suffering, and returned to the theatre in a play called, "Lethe." She then became Nat Goodwin's leading lady, appearing as Ruth in "Ambition," Ada Ingot in "David Garrick" and in "The Gilded Fool."

A year later she produced "Dan-ger-field, '95," and also appeared in "Sue," by Bret Harte, both of which were very successful. She took these two plays to London and it was after seeing "Sue" that the English called Miss Russell "the Duse of the English speaking stage."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"DO you believe there is a life after death?" cries poor Vivian, mourning for her lover, lost in the war. "Ten years now, and it's as bad as the day he went. If only I could have proof that he lives. I want to try Spiritualism—but I wonder—"

Yes, I believe in life after death, Vivian. I believe in it as simply and implicitly as I believe in life before death. I believe that ALL life is of a piece and that birth and death are just incidents along the trail.

I believe, too, that there are a thousand proofs of this fact, all about us. I believe that every shimmering dawn is a proof, every new-born babe, every bursting seed. And I'm sure that we should be constantly looking for such proofs in the simple happenings in our daily lives, and rejoicing when we find them.

BUT I DO NOT THINK THAT WE SHOULD LOOK FOR PROOFS IN SPIRITUALISM.

Nor, do I think that we will ever discover the truth of life after death through Spiritualism, even though I grant the sincerity of many mediums and the amazing phenomena they reveal.

Wisdom has never come to men through mumbo-jumbo, Vivian — through strange, psychic revelations or sudden miracles. Wisdom has come when the time was ripe for it to come—when it had germinated for a long time in the minds of men as a seed germinates in the ground. Look at the telephone, the electric light, the radio, the wireless, the X-Ray, the dynamo—these things are as mysterious in their essence as life itself, but they were not given to us through spirit cabinets or rappings, through trances or "materilizations." They came as a result of long, patient, devoted research. They came when we were ready for them to come—when we knew how to use them safely even if we could not entirely understand them.

That is the way by which all wisdom has come to men—and so, I think we will arrive at the truth about life after death. Through spiritual and scientific research, when we are at last wise enough to use such knowledge safely, without disrupting our careers.

And until that time comes I think it is most dangerous for most of us to tamper with this mystery through spiritualism. Just as it would be dangerous for an African savage to tamper with electricity. The snake might get results—just as we may get results with spiritualism — but those results would most certainly destroy him. Certain peculiarly gifted and trained minds—like Sir Oliver Lodge—may experiment along those lines and eventually open the way for the rest of us, as Franklin, Edison and Marconi opened the way. But you and I, Vivian, will only bring hurt and horror upon ourselves if we try to open sealed doors.

But do not be hopeless. There is one thing you may do which will help to open those doors as surely as the wisdom of all the scientists. YOU CAN HAVE FAITH. Faith is the most potent force in all the world. It is not just a little wistful hope in your own mind. It is a mighty, invisible power which will spread out and out from your mind, blasting its way to the Truth. Give your faith, Vivian, while wiser ones give their skill. Before the consolation, the cruelest wall will fall.
